In Fair Kansas Her Chevrolet Heaven Talk Or Action Farmer, Stick

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1927 by Star Company.

NEWTON, KAN., Dec. 6.—This city, with farms all around it, sees the end of another peaceful day. Thousands of automobiles park at a slant along wide streets, front bumpers touching iron pipe railings where buggies were hitched in old days. No buggies now, before the hardware shop, the drug store or the bank.

This train, bound for the Pacific over the Santa Fe, goes through mile after mile of level corn fields, stalks standing, grain husked, carried away. Modern methods could transform those surplus cornstalks into news print paper or imitation silk dresses of excellent quality. That will happen and some day the farmer may live to see his cornstalks worth more than his corn.

Kansas City, "back east," wants the 1928 Republican convention, thinks Republicans should choose the Midwest to please farmers.

San Francisco, "out west," looking through the Golden Gate toward Asia, wants the convention and means to get it.

This is a big country, wide and great. Kansas City knows San Francisco; Portland, Me., knows Miami as little as Peking knows Paris.

But inside our boundaries everything is united, no tariff walls separate the forty-eight united nations, brotherly competition makes them all more efficient.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest for Miss Vivian Houser, of Kansas City, are these: "They stole my Chevrolet." Every day that Chevrolet took Miss Houser to work at the Brockett Cement Company, No. 2035 East Nineteenth street, and brought her back every evening. She and her best friend, Dorothy Kilgore, drove about to get the air, and on Sundays spent the day outdoors. No wonder Miss Houser advertises this appeal to the thieves, "Please leave Chevrolet coupe, taken Monday night, where it may be found. My only heaven."

A human being without an automobile is like a bird in a cage. Perhaps Mr. Sloan, president of the General Motors, will help Miss Houser to get another "heaven."

Congress opens with 5,400 new bills introduced. Congressman McLeod of Michigan wants a national referendum to repeal the prohibition amendment. He won't get it.

Congressman Oliver of New York wants each community to decide how much alcohol makes a beverage "intoxicating." He won't get that.

Congressman Niedringhous of Missouri would change the Volstead act to permit manufacture of 2.75 alcoholic beverages.

SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF WOMAN

The body of a well-dressed woman about 30 thirty years, believed by the police to be the wife of a lumber, was picked up in Boston Harbor today by a lumber coal captain near Fawn Barbel. Shoal.

The murder theory is based on the fact that the body was found floating and appearances made it evident it had been in the water but a short time.

If the young woman was a suicide or had been accidentally drowned the body would have sunk for at least several days and would not have been in as good condition as the body found, the police say.

The description given by the police states the woman was about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weight 125 lbs., light complexion, black hair, blue eyes, black dress with a red striped overslip, gray stockings and shoes.

Superficial examination at the wharf revealed no visible signs of violence.

Hearst Expose Is Before Congress

Washington, Dec. 7 (I.N.S.).—Congressional investigation of the expose of the alleged intrigue of the Mexican and Liberal Nicaraguan governments by the Hearst newspapers was proposed in the House today in a resolution offered by Representative Loring Black (D.) of New York.

Stating that the documents on which the expose was based "are of high importance to our diplomatic relations with Mexico and other powers" and that "the authenticity of such documents has been questioned through the press of Mexico," Black declared that Congress should investigate their authenticity.

The resolution provided:

"That the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives of the United States be empowered and directed to require the production of all such documents in the possession of all publications under the control of William Randolph Hearst, and that said committee be empowered and directed to investigate into the authenticity of said documents and to inquire into transactions which are the subject matters of said documents, and for that purpose may summon officials of the State Department before it, and may subpoena all

Two persons were injured and hundreds escaped with a shaking up and bruises when a Boston-bound Marblehead train, due at the North station at 8:58 was derailed at West Everett today.

The engine, tender and one coach went over on their sides, two other coaches were derailed and the other five making up the train, all loaded with passengers, remained on the tracks.

Miss Cathrine M. Bixby of Central street, Swampscott, was cut on the left leg, and after being treated by a physician on the scene was sent home in a taxi.

William Collins of Marblehead was cut on the right hand, and continued to Boston after being treated by Dr. Henry I. Keeney of Everett.

Scores of other passengers, the majority girls bound for Boston schools, were bruised and shaken.

MEXICO AMBASSADOR AGAINST SLUSH FUND IN U. S.

other persons necessary for such inquiry, and report forthwith to the Congress of the United States.

Mexican Envoy Opposed Spending Slush Fund in U. S.

By JOHN PAGE.

Copyright, 1927, by Washington Herald.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Manuel C. Telles, Mexican Ambassador to Washington, warned his government in June, 1926, that if the payment of $1,250,000 to high American "personages" should be made as then proposed, it might bring diplomatic relations to a "worse state" than that in which they were.

This warning is disclosed today by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst papers in the publication of official correspondence secretly conducted between President Calles and the Mexican financial agent in New York, who proposed the payment, first revealed by the Hearst papers yesterday.

The names of the men for whom this $1,250,000 payment was intended are known to the American.

The Mexican government, as the Hearst papers will show in this and succeeding articles of this series, was planning to pay this large sum of money, $1,250,000, to officials of our own government; men of influence, power and responsibility; men with a large number following in this country—at the very moment it was plotting to overthrow a government friendly to us, to prevent the construction of a Nicaraguan transcontinental canal vital to our interests and safety, and plotting, also, to involve us in trouble with a great world power, Japan.

Senor Elias, it appears from a letter from President Calles, his half brother, visited Mexico City for the purpose of placing before the Mexican Executive a plan involving the payment of $1,200,000, and suggested that nothing be said about it to Ambassador Telles. But Calles told him verbally at that Telles must be consulted in the affair. The official letter, dated June 10, 1926, is in the possession of the Hearst papers and is published in facsimile elsewhere in these columns.

CALLES' LETTER

The text of the letter follows:

Mexico, D. F.,
June 10, 1926.

Senor Arturo M. Elias,
Financial Agent of Mexico,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Brother:

I did not answer your code, telegram of yesterday (June 9, 1926) because I believe it inadvisable to treat an affair of such transcendence in this form.

I believe that when you were here I explained to you the motive which guided me in considering that Telles should be consulted in this affair. I consider that to do it in any other manner would be to seek discension among ourselves and ruin the whole plan.

I am confident that you will use good sense in this matter, putting personal feelings to one side, for only in that way can you attain the success you desire.

With a strong embrace, your brother who loves you closes,

F. ELIAS CALLES.
(Hand-written).

SG/PEC.

The existence of hard feelings between Ambassador Telles and Senor Elias is well known in Mexico City. Each seeks to mold the policy of his government with respect to the United States, and neither to date has been wholly triumphant. Telles, as Ambassador, holds the higher position of the two rivals, but Elias handles much more money and has the additional advantage of close relationship to President Calles, who is his half brother. This gives him the right to address the President directly, while communications from Ambassador Telles ordinarily must pass through the Foreign Office.

DIRECT DEALINGS

Telles has been attached to the Mexican Embassy in Washington for many years, rising to his ambassadorial rank from the position of first secretary, counselor and minister, successively. He has led that Mexican school of thought which favors the handling of Mexican-American affairs through correct diplomatic procedure and direct dealings with the State Department, and opposes costly efforts to win over American public opinion to favor the Mexican Government against that of its own country.

Senor Elias, on the other hand, has favored the free expenditure of Mexican funds for propaganda and other purposes of a secret character, as disclosed in correspondence exchanged between his Financial Agency in New York and high government officials in Mexico City. Letters published by the Hearst papers in preceding articles of this series have revealed the expenditure of $2,406,500 by Elias during the single year of 1926 for various secret ends.

Elias, therefore, knew that he could expect no support in his $1,250,000 scheme from Telles, and wanted to leave him out of it. When overruled by Calles and informed that Telles must be consulted and brought into line, he obeyed, and found the expected difficulties in winning the ambassador over.

Elias wrote to Aaron Saenz, Mexican Foreign Minister, complaining of the difficulties he had encountered and naming Telles as the "greatest obstacle" to the scheme.

An unfriendly reference to the New England Puritanism of President Coolidge was contained in this letter, Elias wrote that he (Telles) probably has become infected with the Puritan atmosphere with which he is surrounded.

In his letter to the Mexican Foreign Minister, Elias predicted further opposition to the $1,200,000 scheme from Alberto J. Pani, secretary of the Mexican Treasury Department, who, he wrote, "surely will entertain the same views as our bombastic ambassador." In this Elias was quite correct, for Secretary Pani held up the proposed transfer of funds for the completion of the scheme, for several weeks. He resigned later.

SEES DIFFICULTIES

The Elias letter to Saenz was written July 1, 1926. Translated, it follows:

New York, July 1, 1926.

Don Aaron Saenz, Secretary of Foreign Relations, Mexico, D. F.

My Esteemed and Fine Friend:

This letter is written for the purpose of adjoining you very affectionately and advising you that the affair which brought me to Mexico City last May has terminated satisfactorily for the interests of the country, and it is only necessary that the Treasury Department transfer to me the million two hundred thousand dollars needed to complete the transaction.

I must say to you that in this matter the greatest obstacle I encountered was our own Ambassador (blank) C. Telles, who probably has become infected with the Puritan atmosphere of New England, with which he is surrounded. He opposed himself resolutely to the operation in the form in which I had it arranged, alleging that the operation is extremely perilous and capable of bringing the present diplomatic relations to a worse state than that in which they are.

Querido hermano:

Tu telegrama cifrado de fecha de ayer, no lo contesté, por que creo importunente tratar un asunto de tanta trascendencia en esta forma, principalmente lo que tratas en él.

Créo que cuando estuviste aquí, claramente te expliqué el motivo que me guía para considerar que Telles debe de ser consultado en este asunto, y considero que hacerlo de otra manera sería buscar entre uno mismo la discención y la ruina del propio plan.

Confío en que has de usar en este asunto tu buen criterio dejando a un lado sentimientos personales, pues solo así podrás conseguir el éxito que deseas.

Con un fuerte abrazo se despide como siempre tu hermano que te quiere.

LETTER IS QUOTED

This is a facsimile of a letter President Calles sent to Arturo Elias, Mexican financial agent in New York. The original of this is in the possession of the Hearst newspapers.

Disclosures Today in Mexican Expose

Manuel C. Telles, the Mexican Ambassador to the United States, opposed the plan of President Calles and Arturo M. Elias to spend $1,200,000 for propaganda in the United States, documents published by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers today reveal.

This fund, the documents show, was to be paid to officials of the American Government, according to the scheme laid down by Elias, the Mexican financial agent in New York.

According to his view, here in this country Mr. Kellogg is everything, and the important personalities in the Senate are only decorative figures in that which pertains to diplomatic relations with Mexico.

In closing, I must say to you that I expect a new obstacle to the termination of this matter, and that obstacle is Pani (Alberto J. Pani, Secretary of the Treasury), who surely will entertain the same view as our bombastic ambassador. But I confide in your diplomacy and in your ability to convince him that he should not place obstacles, and that he will permit the transfer of the funds without any difficulty, and in the form usual for the payment of interest on the public debt.

It is pleasing to me to sign myself as ever, your affectionate and attentive friend and servant,

El Ame.

Tomorrow the Boston Evening American will publish the text of official Mexican documents which show that an attempt was made by executives of that government to tamper with a high official to tamper with a high official of the United States government.

SMITH BARRED BY SENATE 50 TO 32

Senator Deneen of Illinois, proposing administering of the oath and a hearing before the privileges and elections committee.

Deneen offered his resolution after several hours of oratory by supporters and opponents of the motion, by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, who was absent, to bar the Illinois Senator-elect and William B. Vare, of Pennsylvania, without further hearing.

BORAH SPEAKS FOR SMITH.

Senator Borah, who opposed such a plan, and Senator Reed, of Missouri, bore the brunt of the battle of words.

Five Democrats joined with twenty-seven Republicans in voting to give Smith the oath, while thirteen Republicans and the one Farmer-Laborite joined with thirty-six Democrats in denying the oath.

The roll call follows:

For administering the oath: Republicans: Bingham, Borah, Brookhart, Curtis, Deneen, Edge, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Gould, Greene, Hale, Keyes, McLean, Metcalf, Moses, Phipps, Pine, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Smoot, Steiwer, Warren, Waterman and Watson—twenty-seven. Democrats: Blease, Broussard, Overman, Ransdell, Smith of South Carolina—five. Total—thirty-two.

WALSH VOTES "NO."

Against administering the oath: Republicans—Blaine, Capper, Cousens, Dale, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, Jones of Washington, La Follette, McMaster, McNary, Nye and Wille—12.

Democrats — Ashurst, Barkley, Bayard, Black, Bratton, Bruce, Caraway, Dill, Edwards, Ferris, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, Hendrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Pittman, Reed of Missouri, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Stephenson, Swanson, Thomas, Trammell, Tydings, Tyson, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Wheeler—26. Farmer-Labor—Shipstead—1. Total—30.

BODY OF WOMAN IN HARBOR

Magrath ordered the body removed to the North Grove street morgue.

"The body was not in the water long," was his terse statement.

Captain J. W. Richardson of the harbor tug Paoli noticed the body as he followed the Hamburg American liner Cleveland to Commonwealth Pier, where she was to take on passengers for Europe.

Harbor police in the police boat Guardian made a hurried trip to the scene in the hope of discovering evidence. Meanwhile employes and residents of the harbor islands were to be questioned as to undue actions of small boats plying in the vicinity.

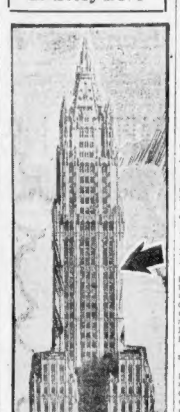
A hasty checkup on liners and other commercial boats plying in and out of the harbor failed to disclose any passenger missing.

Police ordered a checkup on all pleasure craft, away from their moorings at the district yacht club the past few days on the theory that the girl was lured aboard a boat or was the victim of a "seagoing" party.

Naval Vet Drops Dead

John M. Godfrey, fifty-five, a retired chief water tender in the United States Navy, after twenty years' service, was found dead today in a room in Joiner street, Charlestown. Death, the police say, was due to natural causes.

40-Story Dive



A former Hub soldier, Ernest Schwartz, jumped 500 feet from the Woolworth building in New York today, striking the sidewalk in Park place. Arrow points to spot from which he leaped.

According to the army records at Governor's Island, Schwartz joined the army August 28, 1918, at Boston. He was honorably discharged on January 19, 1919, at Camp Devens, Massachusetts. He served as a private in the 101st Depot Brigade.

Several pedestrians escaped being struck as the body landed. A postman standing within six feet of where it fell was lost in the crowd which quickly reflected. An automobile parked at the curb was missed by not more than six inches.

The man was not listed as a tenant of the building and how he reached the spot whence he leaped was a mystery. A dark overcoat and soft hat found on a stairway at the 40th floor indicated that he had jumped from that height.

2 INJURED AS B. & M. TRAIN IS DERAILED

up, but were able to continue their journey on other trains.

Traffic on the Saugus-West Everett branch of the B. & M. was tied up for more than an hour, and there was also a block on the inbound track of the main line of the eastern side of the Portland division.

The derailed train, running five minutes late, was in charge of Conductor Otis M. Wilcox of Malden, Engineer Fred E. Robinson and Fireman Herbert A. Satchelder.

The train, according to official report, had just cleared Everett Junction, and the derail device on the main line was open to protect another train. Under such conditions, officials said, the signals are set against main line trains. Engineer Robinson claims the signal was set for him to proceed.

When the engine struck the switch it immediately left the rails.

Turning over on its side, the engine slid along in a cove of escaping steam pulling the tender and one coach with it to the accompaniment of breaking glass and the screams of women.

PASSENGERS SENT FLYING.

Passengers in the first coach were tossed from their seats to the floor, and those who escaped cuts from flying glass were bruised by being thrown against seats.

Engineer Robinson retained presence of mind enough to refrain from putting on the air brakes, which railroad men say would have resulted in piling the entire train in heap.

As it was, the engine slid along 40 or 50 feet, to within a few feet of the junction point, before it came to a halt, enveloped in steam.

By a fortunate chance the engineer and fireman were not scalded, although they stuck to their posts.

Employes of nearby factories telephoned to the hospitals and police of Everett and Malden, with the result that an ambulance and a number of physicians were soon on the spot.

START RESCUE WORK.

In the meantime Walter Brooks and William Brooks of No 75 Marcella street, Roxbury, with George Holzman of No. 561 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, employes of the W. S. Clark Construction Company nearby, ran to the overturned car and began the work of assisting women passengers through the windows.

The first to be lifted out was Miss Bixby, and others followed until all had been taken to safety. Among physicians on hand to treat the injured were Dr. Harry Bass, Dr. Sydney S. Listernick and Dr. John A. Brevria, but as a rule their services were not needed.

Passengers in the first car who were shaken up and bruised included Miss Beulah Shenk of Lynn, Miss Anna Harvey, Lynn; Mrs. A. C. Travis, Marblehead; Miss Violet Layte, Marblehead; Daniel Green, jr., Lynn; Mrs. Nelda Bowen, Lynn, and Miss Anna McGrath, Lynn.

Stephen Boland of No. 17 North Franklin street, Lynn, another passenger, said he felt the train moving ahead and was then tossed across the aisle.

Another bump occurred on Huntington avenue when an inbound Cypress street trolley stalled near the corner of Berkeley street, with the result that passengers continued their journey inbound on foot.

The car developed motor trouble some distance out on Huntington avenue, but continued limpingly on its way until Berkeley street was reached, where it refused to go further.

The passengers were forced to walk, as were those on other following trolleys. The disabled car was towed to the shops and traffic was resumed.

COOLIDGE HAS SAVED $500,000 AS PRESIDENT

WOLF TO STAY AWAY FROM HIS HOME

Washington, Dec. 7 (I N S).—Calvin Coolidge will not have to worry about keeping the wolf from the door when he leaves the White House on March 4, 1929. He has definitely pulled out of the 1928 race.

Practising the same economy in private life he has insisted upon in governmental expenditures, President Coolidge will go out of office with a moderate fortune, around a half million dollars, amassed for the most part during his occupancy of the White House.

Personal friends estimate Mr Coolidge's "stake" at somewhere between $400,000 and $500,000 not a large fortune as fortunes go in these boom times, but sufficient for the Coolidges' quiet tastes.

NOT A SPENDER.

At the conclusion of the President's term, he will have served almost six years as President at an annual salary of $75,000.

Prior to that he was for two years vice-president at $15,000 a year, and before coming to Washington he received a $10,000 annual salary as Governor of Massachusetts.

The President has spent only a very small part of his annual salary as President. Congress appropriates $25,000 annually toward traveling and entertainment expenses at the executive mansion.

In addition to the money saved during his term, the President inherited his father's estate, estimated at $100,000.

MRS COOLIDGE WILLING.

Mr. Coolidge has given no indication of what he intends to do after retiring. He is known to have received a number of business offers, but it is not thought probable he will accept any of them. His friends believe he will retire to his old home in Vermont and devote his time to writing and pursuing the quiet life of "a country gentleman."

President Coolidge, in his speech to the Republican National Committee, definitely closed the door on his own candidacy for renomination and opened wide the way to all Republican aspirants to the White House

Mother of 20 Wants Four More Girls

By FRANCES L. BAIRD.

What price a baby—a future American citizen?

Add to the travail of twenty births the anguish of eleven deaths and the scars of twenty-two years battling the wolf from the door and you have the apparent cost of little Nicholas Pizzi, twentieth child born at Middlesex Hospital, Cambridge, to Mrs. Catherine Pizzi of No. 33 Fifth street, East Cambridge.

But does Mrs. Pizzi count the cost as she fondles her new baby?

"No, no, it is nothing," she smiles, "God has given me another little one. I am glad. My husband is glad, but he hoped it would be another girl. He likes girls, so I shall have four more and ask God to send all girls."

Lying in her humble home the mother, who is forty-one years old, expounded her philosophy of life.

"You do not understand," she said gently. "It is true we are very poor. My husband, who works digging cellars for houses, dare not miss even one day's work, or we lack food, but most Americans have the wrong idea of life. You think money counts.

"Well, before we had any children my husband's wages went every Saturday night, just as they do now, but we have these nine fine children to show for his money now. Only babies bring real happiness. Money goes."

Mrs. Pizzi sadly told how sickness

3 FEET OF SNOW IN MID-WEST

Kansas City, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Winter bore down on the Middle West and Southwest today. In some sections snow had reached a depth of two to three feet.

At Denver it was 12 below zero, Elk Park, Mont., 35 below.

Sub-zero temperatures in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin intensified a blizzard that rapidly was blocking highway and affecting travel in general.

Snow delayed trains in western Kansas.

Light snow was also reported in Texas northern and eastern Oklahoma, and snow flurries prevailed in Missouri.

In Canada, Edmonton reported 36 below and Swift Current 34 below. Hibbing, Minn., and Minot, N. D., each reported 20 below.

HAPGOOD PAYS HIS $20 FINE

Powers Hapgood, Harvard graduate, found guilty by a jury last week of speaking on Boston Common without a permit in connection with a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting last August, today decided not to carry an appeal to the Supreme Court and paid a fine of $20 levied by Judge Fosdick in Suffolk Superior Court.

The meeting at which Hapgood was arrested took place just before Sacco-Vanzetti were executed. Hapgood, after his arrest, was placed under observation at the Psychopathic Hospital but released when doctors O. K'd him.

DAUGHTER AND REMUS IN COLLAPSE

Cincinnati, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—George Remus on trial for his life for slaying his wife, became hysterical in the courtroom today when Harry Truesdale of Hamilton, O., calmly testified how he had watched Remus for days in an effort to kill him for a payment of $10,000 offered by Mrs. Remus, the woman Remus slew October 6 last.

Remus' breakdown left him in such an exhausted condition this afternoon that three doctors recommended that the afternoon session of court be called off, and this was done.

Romola Remus, who had been sitting next to her father, also became hysterical and when court recessed her screams echoed down the corridors.

Mrs. Gabriel Ryerson, Remus' sister, sitting among the spectators, screamed loudly.

Remus first buried his face in his handkerchief and sobs shook his big shoulders. He peered up from behind the pieces of linen and from his seat jerkily asked Judge Chester R. Shock:

"Your honor, can we have an adjournment?"

"The jury will be excuse," assented Judge Shock. While the ten men and two women of the jury filed out, the storm broke.

As Remus was being led from the courtroom, he exclaimed repeatedly to Judge shock: "Your honor, I apologize."

Romola, following, seemed about to collapse. Somebody helped her outside the court room, where she screamed at the top of her voice.

"BLOOD CURDLING" STORY.

Truesdale's story of his engagement to slay Remus and his efforts to find Remus alone to kill him was blood-curdling. He narrated it in a well practiced way and in such a low voice that parts of his testimony had to be read to the jury by the court reporter. It lost none of its effectiveness in being twice told.

Mrs. Remus promised him $5,000 and said that another $5,000 would be forthcoming from Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., of Lansing, Mich., former Department of Justice agent who obtained the conviction that sent Remus to a federal penitentiary, and who then, according to Remus' plea, began an association with Mrs. Remus.

TOLD REMUS OF PLOT.

Truesdale, a gigantic, clean looking youth, calmly detailed the terms of the slaying plot.

He said that he finally told Remus of the plan on the afternoon of October 5 last. The next morning Remus ran hi swife down in Eden Park here and shot her to death as she was en route to divorce court.

Truesdale testified that he first saw Remus at the Springdale dog racing track, where he was pointed out by John Marcus.

In the negotiations with Mrs. Remus, to whom he was introduced by Marcus, Truesdale tastified, Mrs. Remus made him an original payment of $250 for expenses when he agreed to do the killing.

WOULDN'T GIVE SECURITY.

"I told her I wanted some security or surety of some kind," he testified.

"She wouldn't give me none. She said she would give me $5,000 and another person would give me $3,000. I asked her who this other party was, and she said a man named Franklin Dodge.

"She said she wished somebody would beat Remus' brains out. I asked her would it mean thousands to her, and she said it would mean more than thousands.

"She wouldn't give me no security or nothing. She said I would be paid the next day.

"She told me Mr. Remus stayed in the Sinton Hotel. She told me his room number, 327, I believe.

"I followed him several times Twice I sat in a chair outside his room in the hall.

"I planned to kill him in his room but there always was too many people about."

JURORS IN TEARS.

It was at that point that Remus and his daughter, Romola, gave way to tears and then hysterics.

Charles H. Elston, co-counsel with Remus, and George Connors former "Lieutenant in chief" to Remus when the defendant was the "King of Bootleggers," hurried up stairs to Remus' jail cell to attend him.

They were followed closely by Doctors E. A. Baber and David L. Wolstein, two of the three court-appointed alienists, who will pass upon Remus' mental status. They already have rendered a tentative report that Remus was sane when he shot his wife and sane now.

SEEKS LICENSE

Nathan Margolis, driver of police-commandeered auto which killed a man in chase, asks Highway Commission to restore license revoked by Goodwin.

Juror carried in Ohio cases filed from the courtroom there was hardly a dry eye amongst them. Mrs. Anna Hicking, 58-year-old jurywoman, was shaking with sobs.

POLICE PLEAD FOR LOSER OF AUTO LICENSE

The policeman who commandeered the automobile of Nathan Margolis of Mattapan, and who was riding in it in pursuit of supposed desperadoes when the car struck and killed Timothy J. Scannell of South Boston, today pleaded for Margolis before the State Highway Commission.

Margolis was before the commission to seek restoration of his license which Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin revoked following the fatal accident. Patrolman James J. Quinn of Fields Corner division corroborated his story.

"I think he had perfect control of the car," said Quinn. "I am sorry because he never would have had that accident if it hadn't been for me."

"Then why shouldn't your license be revoked instead of his?" asked Commissioner Frank Lyman. "That's right," replied Quinn.

"I believed I was bound to assist the police officer when he commandeered my car," Margolis told the commission members. "I gave assistance freely, endangered my life, wrecked my car and laid myself open to civil and criminal action.

"Do you think I should be further penalized by loss of my automobile license?"

At the conclusion of the hearing Commissioner William F. Williams said decision was reserved, but would be announced quickly.

WILL ROGERS BECOMES "CUATE" TO PRES. CALLES

Mexico City, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Don Guillermo Rodrigues, who was satisfied to pass in the United States simply as Will Rogers, has tacked another handle on his name, dispatches from San Luis Potosi say.

President Calles, whose guest the American humorist is, on a tour of Mexico, said to Rogers in Spanish, "You and I are cuates." Cuate is slang for twin and equivalent to the English "pal." Rogers forthwith became Don Cuate Guillermo Rodrigues.

Millionaire Spends Not a Cent to Be Mayor

Holyoke, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Fred G. Burnham, millionaire Mayor-elect, won from a field of four in the most remarkable campaign ever waged in this city. He spent not a cent, made no promises and voiced only three oral statements. Yet he defeated seasoned campaigners, including two former Mayors.

Refusal of city officials to accept his low bid for the municipal coal supply and his caustic and humorous exploitation of this refusal suggester to substantial citizens his availability for the mayoralty.

When nomination papers were submitted for his signature, however, he tore them up. He was not allowed to treat a second set thus.

Up to ten days ago Mr. Burnham was not a candidate in the accepted sense of the word but the sentiment that put him across was developed by a host of friends and crystalized Sunday night when at a rally sponsored by the American Legion he declared he stood for the highest principles in public affairs and questioned the business judgment of men who would pay out $10,000 and $15,500 to get an office paying only $3,200.

SEND SUBPENA BY PLANE TO COL. FORBES

Kansas City, Kas., Dec 7 (A.P.)—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, today was bobpooned to appear before the Federal Grand Jury here December 16 to testify as to charges he made in a published article that a narcotic traffic exists at the Federal Penitentiary at Leaven worth, Kas.

Colonel Forbes was released from the penitentiary November 26, where he served a two-year sentence for conspiracy to defraud the government.

He said the traffic was not the fault of Warden T. B. White, but was beyond his control.

The subpoena was sent today by air mail to Plymouth, Mass., where Colonel Forbes is visiting his mother. Dispatches from Plymouth quoted Colonel Forbes as saying he would be willing to testify.

MOTHER OF 20 WANTS MORE

took ten of her children during infancy. Another died of pneumonia when she was eight years old.

As a girl in sunny Italy, Catherine was considered a great beauty when she became the bride of Anthony Pinzi. Her teeth were like a row of pearls. Every year a new baby came and the old saying that "each child costs its mother one tooth" apparently was added to the other coats.

"But we women must always weep," she said. "Why worry if beauty fades? We have fulfilled our mission if we have reared a family of honest citizens. I only hope that my oldest daughter does not get foolish ideas of women's rights. She always says that she does not want to spend her life cleaning a house and washing for babies like me. But wait till Angeline meets the right man, she will see life as other Italian women do. Our husbands want children and we must bear them."

There are nine living children, Anthony 18, Angelina 16 Pater 13, Frank 12, Joseph 10, Lucy 8, Danny 4, Mary 2 and baby Nicholas, born last Friday

PERSHING FOR PRESIDENT IS FARMERS' YELL

Chicago, Dec 7 (U.N.S.)—Amid scenes of wildest enthusiasm following the conclusion of his address before the American Farm Bureau Federation convention here today General John J. Pershing was urged by 3,000 shrieking farmers to announce himself as a presidential candidate.

"Tell him he's presidential timber! We want Pershing!" were the cries that greeted the former commander of the American Expeditionary Forces.

General Pershing firmly took up the cause of farm relief in his address, declaring the ploughshare with the sword shares the burden of national defence, and it is imperative there be a national policy of agriculture as well as military preparedness.

Hughes Declines to Run; He's Too Old

New York, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Charles E. Hughes is not a candidate for President.

"I am not a candidate in any sense," said Mr. Hughes, today. "I am keenly disappointed by Mr. Coolidge's decision, but so far as my own attitude toward the candidacy is concerned, I stand by the statement I made last May. I have nothing to add to it."

In his statement last May Mr. Hughes said:

"I do not wish my name to be used in any contingency. I am too old to run for President, and I would neither seek nor accept the nomination."

FRATERNITY PLEDGING AT YALE IS DENOUNCED

New Haven, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Describing the current fraternity pledging of Yale as one "of the most corrupt campaigns ever known," Robert W. Huntington Jr., of Hartford voiced a protest in a letter to the Yale News today against the manner in which candidates were pledged. Mr. Huntington warned that Yale College "will have become a 'fraternity college' and the various national organizations will smack their live with content."

Prenter had been connected with the Brotherhood for 49 years, and for two years was president, succeeding Warren S. Stone upon Mr. Stone's death in 1925. Prenter was removed as president by this year's convention, when the office was abolished.

Deer Hunter Shot in Arm

Hyanuis, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Edgar H. Peavey, 26, is on the danger list at Cape Cod Hospital as the result of a fracture of the right arm and a gun shot wound received today when the shotgun with which he was deer hunting in Harwich was accidentally discharged.

BURNS AGENT ADMITS TRAIL OF OIL JURY

Washington, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Testifying for the government, Charles G. Ruddy, a Burns detective, declared in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today, that Henry Mason Day, an associate of Harry F. Sinclair, personally ordered an investigation as to whether there was a mortgage on the home of one of the Fall-Sinclair oil trial jurors.

The juror in question was John P. Kern. Ruddy said the operative he assigned was unable to obtain the information.

Ruddy was the first witness called in the district attorney's efforts to show that Sinclair, William J. Burns and others were guilty of contempt of court in having the trial jury placed under surveillance.

Ruddy said that after October 24 Day decided only certain jurors needed shadowing, but he couldn't recall which they were. He said a man named Burr, not a juror, was shadowed.

WAR WARNINGS BY LITHUANIA AND POLAND

Geneva, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Conditions that threaten the peace of Eastern Europe now exist, Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania told the Council of the League of Nations today, opening an attack on Poland in the Polish-Lithuanian controversy.

He asked the Council to hold Poland responsible for organization on Polish soil of bands which, he declared, were fomenting strife in Lithuania.

Finally he requested the Council to order an inquiry into the alleged persecution of Lithuanians in the district of Vilna, including the clergy, and into the closing of Lithuanian schools.

Foreign Minister Zaleski of Poland, presenting the Polish case, asked the council to rule that the "state of war" which Lithuania says exists between the two countries is incompatible with the covenant of the League of which Lithuania is a member, and should be discontinued. He said that, while only fictitious, the state of war might be transformed into a war of carnage by some unhappy incident.

He also requested the council to rule that the Lithuanian attitude is a danger to general peace.

Testimonial Urged for Coolidge Gift

"DO your Christmas suggesting early."

That's the slogan of the President's Gift Editor, who announces today that December 15 is the closing date for receiving, from readers of the Boston Evening American, hints for a gift to President Calvin Coolidge.

This gift—to cost $50 and to be a New England product—will be selected from suggestions made by readers. (Write YOURS now to the President's Gift Editor, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.)

City officials are among those who come to bat today with ideas. A Newton woman suggests $50 worth of Boston-made cigars.

On Law Department stationery came the following:

President's Gift Editor:

It seems to me the most appropriate gift would be a testimonial on parchment conveying to the President the sincere wishes of the people of this State for continued good health, happiness and prosperity for himself and his family, this testimonial to be signed in behalf of the people of this Commonwealth, by His Excellency, the Governor, and in behalf of the people of the capital city of this Commonwealth, by His Honor the Mayor.

Yours truly,
(Signed) SAMUEL SILVERMAN,
Assistant Corporation Counsel.

Chairman Frank Sutherlin of the Board of Election Commissioners writes:

President's Gift Editor:

Knowing the President's good sense of humor, there would be no finer gift for him, in my opinion, than the ten or twelve volumes of the "Sayings of Will Rogers," written during the past three years, or the twenty volumes of Mark Twain's works. I know he would be appreciative of these.

(Signed) FRANK SEIBERLICH.
Write your suggestion today.

JAP BUTLER IS GIVEN 6 YEARS

James Akajawa, Japanese butler who pleaded guilty last week to charges of breaking and entering the home of George W. Roope of Beacon street, former employer, and larceny of $16,000 worth of valuables belonging to Mrs. Roope, was sent to State Prison today for six to ten years.

The break was made a year ago, shortly after Akajawa left the employ of Roope. He was apprehended in Pittsburgh and brought to Boston for trial.

Discard City Manager

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Tampa voters at a special election here today discarded the present commission city manager form of government for one made up of a mayor and 12 council by adopting a new city charter. The vote was 4,750 to 1,507.

109 DIE IN AIR ACCIDENTS

Washington, Dec. 6 (A.P.)—Commercial aviation's cost in life and limb was calculated today for the first time when W. P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce announced national statistics on the subject at a department conference.

From January 1 to October 31 of 1927, the first year of commercial flying, there were 109 persons killed in plane accidents and 88 injured in aerial service conducted for a profit.

Savant Urges College 'Civilizing Factories'

Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Establishment of "civilising factories" for those students who go to higher institutions of learning for the "college stamp" and not education, was advocated by Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes, Smith College professor and noted sociologist, in an address here.

As teachers in such "factories" Dr. Barnes suggested men like Dr. William Lyon Phelps, Will Durant, Lathrop Stoddard and Will Rogers.

Classes of 3,000 or 4,000 students could be taught at one time and the buildings of the institution could be situated on the same campuses with the colleges, whose size would be decreased to such an extent that the real seekers of knowledge could obtain learning without interference.

Football and the "alumni nuisance" would be eliminated with other problems of the modern large college, he said, because the feeling for "bigger and better teams and bigger and better stadiums" would apply only to the factories and not the colleges.

GETS SLEEP AS HICCOUGHS GO

The hiccoughs of John B. McCarthy, Dorchester war veteran, were turned back for fourteen hours today—and they may be ended permanently.

McCarthy, who was attacked by the malady on Thanksgiving Day, was put to sleep last night by Walter H. Rollins, mechano-therapy expert of No. 13 Huntington avenue, who was taken to the McCarthy home by a Brookline fire captain.

After half an hour of working with his hands on McCarthy's spine and chest, the hiccoughs stopped and the expert ordered the soldier to turn over and go to sleep. McCarthy did so, and at the end of fourteen hours, was still sleeping today.

Economies of Operation

FOR fifty years Swift & Company has been handling perishable meat products. During that time an efficient money-saving system of marketing has been developed.

Science has been utilized to find new uses for many products that once were waste and better uses for old products. Multiplied uses have increased volume. Increased volume has resulted in decreased manufacturing and marketing expense. Experience, science and skill have reduced waste to a minimum.

Swift's marketing system means only one profit—and that is low. For the entire operation of converting live animals into Premium Ham and Bacon, Brookfield Sausage and other finished meat products and distributing them to the retailer, Swift & Company receives a profit from all sources averaging only a fraction of a cent per pound.

The National Distribution Conference in 1925 found the wholesale expenses of the packers' branch houses to be the lowest of the seventeen trades studied.

These economies of operation make possible full market value for live stock and lowest possible prices for meat. Swift & Company serves both producer and consumer efficiently and well.

Declares Modern Youths 'God Fearing Bunch'

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 7 (A.P.).—E. P. Gates of Boston, secretary of the Interdenominational Young People's Commission in session here, took issue with persons who denounced the younger generation as on the road to ruin.

He said the vast majority of the young people of today were a "clean minded, level headed, and God-fearing bunch, and would undoubtedly develop into outstanding types of citizens."

"What the decent youths of today need is a good press agent," said Mr. Gates, "for the public only hears of the evil committed by them and rarely of their good deeds. A wrong impression has been created in which the news papers have greatly aided. Young people's delinquencies always find their way to the front, while their meritorious conduct is left unsung and unheralded."

FATHER OF 15 IS HELD ON POLYGAMY CHARGE

Lawrence, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—James J. Finnegan of Dover, N. H., who was arrested in Keene, N. H., and brought here to face charges of non support by his wife, the mother of thirteen children, has been held for the Grand Jury at Providence, R. I., on a charge of polygamy, local police were informed today. His case, at which local officers will testify, will be heard Tuesday. Finnegan, who is fifty years of age, is alleged to have married a Dover, N. H., girl in 1922 at Woonsocket, R. I., without getting a divorce from his first wife. Two children were born to the second union.

COOLIDGE FIXES TAX CUT AT 225 MILLION

fairly close to the President's warning.

It exceeded his figure approximately $10,000,000, but a movement is under way to cut that off when the bill gets to the floor of the House and Senate.

The estimated surplus for 1929 is $252,540,252. The estimated surplus as of June, 1928, is $454,583,808.

The estimated cost of running the government in 1929 is $1,556,957,031 as against $1,521,314,255 estimated for 1928, or a reduction of $34,357,254.

Estimated receipts for 1929 are $2,809,497,314, as against $4,078,454,091 for 1928, a slump of $268,100,777. These figures do not include postal revenues and expenditures from postal revenues.

The expenditure estimate for 1929 does not include money for flood control, except the annual allowance of $10,000,000 in the six-year program authorized by Congress. The President said that adequate flood protection "means the requirement of absolute and urgent necessity".

The budget, the President declared, has been "directly responsible for our present position of financial stability.

"To jeopardize our balanced budget, to do anything that in the most remote degree would threaten to interfere with the orderly processes of wise financing, to take steps in the interest of tax reduction that would necessitate either revolutionary curtailment of important Federal projects and activities or compel a later upward revision of the rates, or both, is unthinkable."

Since the war the public debt has been reduced, on June 30, 1927, by $8,004,194,716, at an annual saving in interest of approximately $320,000,000.

The President's views on other fiscal problems follow:

REFUNDING TAXES—"The bud get contains an estimate of $125,000,000 for refunding of taxes for the full fiscal year 1929. "I believe the time has come when our estimates of appropriations for refunding taxes illegally collected should be reflected in the appropriation items requested in the budget."

CIVILIAN EMPLOYES—"Taking all things into consideration, I feel that the government is liberal in the treatment of its employes."

He estimated the average salary of the government employe for 1929 at $1,607 annually.

NATIONAL DEFENSE—An estimate of approximately $648,000,000 is carried for national defense. This represents $48,000,000 for the increase of the navy and provides for naval construction authorized by Congress with the exception of submarines and twelve destroyers authorized in 1916 "for which no funds are desired at this time."

"Navy craft under construction in 1929 will comprise two submarines and eight cruisers, of which two will be practically completed in 1928—the Pensacola and Salt Lake City."

At the end of the year the navy will have 896 of the 1,000 planes authorized in the five-year program.

Est mates for the army contemplate a regular enlisted personnel of 118,750, with 12,000 officers. Money is provided for the second year increment in the five-year program looking toward 1,800 airplanes for the Army Air Corps.

AIR SERVICE—"Our procurement of aircraft and accessories is from private industry. That is as it should be. We have gone further than this. Private industry is now operating by contract our entire postal air mail service. We now have thirteen contract air mail routes in operation and seven others under contract with a view to early operation.

"This policy of cooperating with private industry is helping to bring America to the forefront in air navigation. More than 10,000 miles of lighted airways will be completed next year."

FEDERAL AID TO STATES—"To relieve the States of their just obligations by resort to the Federal treasury is the final result is hurtful rather than helpful to the State, and unfair to the payers of national taxes.

"We should not only decidedly refuse to countenan additional Federal participation in State-aid projects, but should make careful study of all our activities of that character with a view to curtailing them."

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN—Retirement of this loan will result in a total annual saving in interest of more than $45,000,000

James Dudley Dies

Dudley, Dec. 7 (A. P.).—James Dudley, 88, Dudley's oldest counsel, died today. He had served the town many years as selectman and road commissioner. He was a native of England.

U. S. Budget Totals 41-4 Billion for Year 1928-29

Washington, Dec. 7 (I.N.S.)—Here are the chief budget estimates of Federal expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929:

Total expenditures, including postal service—$4,258,723,765, a decrease of $30,732,466 from 1928 fiscal year

White House—$437,180, decrease $81,280.

Senate—$2,826,220, decrease $14,670.

House—$7,516,193, decrease $14,732.

State Department—$14,013,188, increase $880,058.

Treasury—$310,373,562, decrease $11,181,928.

War—$381,817,843, decrease $5,332,132.

Navy—$362,167,020, increase $14,299,042.

Justice—$36,784,630, decrease $119,535.

Labor—$10,735,840, increase $70,084.

Commerce—$37,590,460, increase $131,016.

Postoffice—$763,270,042, increase $10,682,942.

Agriculture—$142,753,290, decrease $591,320.

Interior—$300,190,089, decrease $36,453,532.

Interstate Commerce Commission—$7,442,337, decrease $338,577.

Shipping Board—$13,688,750, decrease $3,901,250.

Veterans' Bureau—$500,000,000, increase $31,650,000

Interest on Public Debt—$679,000,000, decrease $50,000,000.

Bureau of Prohibition—Estimates were decreased $591,265.

ASKS TAX ON PROFIT ON STOCK DIVIDEND SALE

A tax of 3 per cent. on profit from the sale of stock issued as a stock dividend is recommended to the legislature today by Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long. He says the Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled that stock dividends were, but for a legislative act on the subject, taxable incomes.

Another bill would tax the gain on money or credit loaned. From these two measures, Long estimated the State would receive in excess of $1,000,000.

WIDOW WITH 4 CHILDREN LOSES HER POCKETBOOK

A widow who supports her four children by doing housework and who needs every nickel she can earn, lost her pocketbook last evening in Brookline while returning home. It contained her day's earnings, amounting to $3.80. Will the finder please return to the owner, Mrs Margaret Brady of No. 20 Merriam street, Somerville. In addition to Mrs. Brady's day's pay the pocketbook contained an insurance policy.

New Sanatorium Planned

Plans for the erection of a new municipal sanatorium at the Mattapan Hospital at a cost of $1,000,000 were announced by Mayor Nichols.

ELECT M'BRIDE ANTI-SALOON LEADER

Washington, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—The Rev. F. Scott McBride, Westerville, O., was formally reelected today as general superintendent of the Anti Saloon League, and Dr. Ernest H Cherrington of Westerville was elected director of the newly created department of education and publicity of the league.

Some of those about the meeting interpreted the action as a victory for the McBride over the Cherrington forces, particularly in view of the fact that W. M. Forgrave, of Boston, superintendent of the Massachusetts League, was dropped. He was a strong Cherrington supporter.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson was reelected president of the league.

Forgrave's place was filled by Myron E. Genter, Norwich Ct.

Reports that this action resulted from Forgrave's opposition to McBride and his policies, particularly on the question of dry planks in party platforms, were denied by McBride, who said it had been decided that State superintendents and other paid workers of the league should not be members of the committee.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

The Leverett Saltonstalls Soon to Return From Hunting Trip in Ireland

VERY SOON NOW WILL MR. AND MRS. LEVERETT SALTONSTALL be turning homeward after an ever so brief foreign jaunt that had several pleasant angles First and foremost, Mr. and Mrs. Saltonstall, being ardently addicted to the hunt, made a pilgrimage to County Meath, in the heart of the Irish hunting country, a chief object of their trip. At Bective House is headquarters for Americans, especially Bostonians, who have the inclination and the leisure to travel several thousand miles for a bit of their favorite sport.

FOR MRS. SALTONSTALL, WHO PRECEDED HER HUSBAND abroad by a short interval, there was a sortie on Paris, and Paris for every woman, of course, means a trunkful of new gowns and fripperies. The Saltonstall party and that of the Dr. William Wesselhoefts were frequently together during their stay abroad. Mrs. Saltonstall was Miss Alice Wesselhoeft before she became the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Richard Middlecott Saltonstall, well-known society matron of generous philanthropies and important place in local aristocracy.

MADEMOISELLE CLAUDEL, HIS EXCELLENCY THE FRENCH Ambassador's daughter, is a piquant young thing with a marvelous assortment of frocks to set off her individuality and Gallic charm. She brought with her to town some most fetching frocks her wardrobe boasts. There is a beaded crepe light as gossamer and gleaming with a thousand iridescent pastel tints And there is a silken crepe of svelte draping and Parisian sophistication. It was that latter Mlle. Claudel chose to wear yesterday afternoon when she was in the receiving line for the reception to Beverly Nichols.

A TEA FOR MR. NICHOLS HAS FOR YOUNG HOSTESS MISS VIRGINIA COWLES, at her Chestnut street home. And it was the very first festivity arranged in honor of the visiting Britisher, who moves through a kaleidoscope of entertaining. This afternoon Camp Fire Girls and all their friends will hear Mr. Nichols speak at the Hotel Somerset. He comes to town specially to benefit "Camp Fire House," and all the very youthful hostesses having to do with his entertainment are thrilled with their responsibility. Miss Polly Beale, debutante daughter of Mrs. Arthur M. Beale of Chestnut street, is occupying a chief post, and many and willing are her assistants.

HIGH IN FAVOR WITH THE YOUNGER SET IS THE COUNTRY CLUB. Its spaciousness and its lack of pretentious decoration afford the Just-Outs exactly that degree of homelike informality they enjoy for their parties. The dance Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Kellogg and Mrs. Brauton H Kellogg gave there last evening for Miss Jane Kellogg carried on pleasantly the debutante program as laid down for the present week. Before the dance there was a large dinner for more than half a hundred guests, and this, too, was at the Country Club.

MRS. KELLOGG HAS AN APARTMENT AT THE HOTEL SHERATON this Winter, and has her niece with her. Miss Kellogg is the daughter of the Charles W. Kelloggs of New York and Ashland, N. H., who came over for the gladsome occasion. Later in the season Miss Kellogg goes a-traveling, as do so many of the debutantes. She is a provincial Junior Leaguer.

MRS. ROYCE GILBERT
Society matron will be a charming "Columbine" in "Lilacs in April" to be given in Jordan Hall Friday and Saturday evenings.

MRS. ROYCE GILBERT OF BAY STATE road is letter perfect in her part as "Columbine" for Friday evening's dramatics at Jordan Hall. She is the "Columbine" of Rostand's "Lilacs in April," done into English especially for this performance by Louise Llewellyn. Clayton Gilbert and Gilbert Byron have arranged a ballet called "In the Park," costumed from Godey's Ladies Book. It can't help but be quaintly interesting in this day of the straight line and the shorn head.

OF DIVERSIFIED APPEAL IS THE PROGRAM. BESIDES "Lilacs" and the ballet there is a Brighouse comedy, and Sierra's "Cradle Song," all done by students of dramatics at the Conservatory Friends of these talented young people and all their doting relatives will be on hand both Friday evening and Saturday as well to, by their presence, spur budding genius on to fine dramatic effort.

CERTAINLY A SOBERLY-COLORED AND BUILT-FOR-SERVICE army transport wagon scarce would recognize its glorified self at "Caravan." Pretty girls will be clustered on it and gay colors adorn it. It is one of the service features that go along with "Caravan" to create a Bazaar odd and unusual. "Caravan" is the name for the three-day sale for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club, commencing tomorrow in Horticultural Hall's vaulted gray spaces. Flags will be everywhere, and yards of bunting and trim uniforms of young service men aiding the good cause of their club.

IT'S QUITE PROBABLE THE FINANCIAL RESULTS OF "CARAVAN" will be as brilliantly satisfying as its decorative scheme. Having added a most comfortable sum to club coffers through the stupendously successful "Army and Navy Ball" the other evening, club potentates wish to in a measure strike another's bull's eye with "Caravan." Of ardent workers there is a satisfying array, all of the tried and true sort every chairman rejoices in having on a committee.

THE LIST OF WORKERS IS: MRS. BARRETT WENDELL, MRS. Norman Frost Greeley, Mrs. Walter Pratt, Mrs. Richard D. Coe, Mrs. Thomas Cady, Miss Margaret B. Slade, Mrs. John Kidney, Mrs. Richard H. Higgins, Mrs. Cornelius C. Flynn, Mrs. Wilbur Grant, Mrs. Edmund H. Talbot, Mrs. Leverett Tuckerman, Mrs. Alanson Daniels, Mrs. Joseph Levy, Mrs. George H. Hine, Mrs. Isabel Corliss, Mrs. Thomas C. Thacher, Miss Elizabeth Leland, Mrs. Henry H. Sprague, Mrs. Harrison G. Reynolds, Mrs. Preston Brown, Mrs. Oscar J. Phillips, Mrs. G. F. Freeman, Miss Edith Tichnor, Mrs. Thomas E. Cady, Mrs. Leslie Phinney, Mrs. Charles Hidgely, Mrs. A. B. Day, Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske, Mrs. Paul D. Rust and Mrs. Carroll J. Swan.

BATES DEFENDS PAROLES AS CRIME CURE

Criticising Judge David F. Dillon for his attack on the parole system, Sanford Bates, commissioner of correction, today declared Massachusetts is more free of crime than any other large State, due in part to parole and probation methods.

Judge Dillon, who blamed the Legislature, not the Parole Board, asserted judges have to double the length of sentences in order to offset the parole laws.

"While the rest of the country is piling on penalties, the Massachusetts policy is proving its worth," said Commissioner Bates. "As far as I know, Judge Dillon has never visited Concord Reformatory or inquired of the department as to the working of the parole system.

"Deducting automobile cases, Massachusetts has seen no increase in the total number of criminal cases since 1910. Figures show that in 1916 the percentage of pardons to the number of prisoners at State Prison was 14.7, whereas in 1926 the percentage was 1.8. This shows the parole system is not being abused.

"Criminals are actually serving longer sentences here under the parole system than they did under the indefinite sentence. Statistics show that my mind isn't changed by anything Judge Dillon said and I'll stand by the record of the Massachusetts system, including probation and parole."

Haverhill Hunter Shot

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 7 (A.P.)—William Goddard, seventeen, died today in a local hospital as the result of a hunting accident. Young Goddard, whose home is at No. 87 Horstreet, Haverhill, Mass., was hunting in Deerfield when a gun in the hands of one of his friends was accidentally discharged.

Tried to Get Something on Walker, Gallivan Says

Washington, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—The charge that Mayor Walker of New York City, during his recent European tour, was shadowed by detectives acting under orders of Sheldon Whitehouse, American charge d'affaires in Paris was made in the House today by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts.

He declared an effort was made to "get something on this mayor, who was a member of Tammany Hall, a political body not in sympathy with the party in power here in our own America."

"My old college friend, the ambassador in the Court of St. James, fled to the highlands of Scotland to avoid meeting the distinguished tourist," Gallivan said. "Valiant enough to face a Scotch stag, his courage failed him at the thought of the Tammany Tiger."

Indianapolis, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Joseph B. Kealing, Republican national committeeman from Indiana, died suddenly at his home today. Kealing was taken ill while in Washington last week.

BLANTON NOW WOULD OUST DRINKING CONGRESSMEN

Washington, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Impeachment and disbarment charge of any senator, representative, judge or any other employe of the government who purchases intoxicating liquor from a "bootlegger," was demanded in a resolution today by Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas. Another resolution offered by him would bar diplomats in the United States from importing liquor for personal use, and made diplomatic traffic law violators persona non grata.

STRIP COOLIDGE HOTEL SUITE AT AUCTION

"Eighteen dollars once—
"Eighteen dollars twice—
"Sold D for eighteen dollars to L. C. Price!"

Stridently the voice of the auctioneer at the Adams House announced to the dense crowd that wedged him into a corner of the famous "Coolidge suite" that the desk at which President Coolidge wrote his speeches while Governor of Massachusetts had passed into the possession of the proprietor of the Hotels Lenox and Brunswick.

The entire contents of two small rooms once occupied by the President and his family today sold for a total of $218.50.

ALL GOES CHEAP.

The desk is an antique four and a half feet high and three feet wide with a writing board no larger than that of a modern woman's desk ink-stained and time-worn it looks small and insignificant beside the red plush glory of the divan and couch that once lent splendor to the room where Coolidge entertained political friends and important delegates.

The brass twin beds, upon which Coolidge slept, sold for $24 each complete, bid in by Dr. F. W Murdock, No. 462 Commonwealth avenue.

Fifty yards of Brussels carpet in the two rooms went for $19 the red plush lounge for $12 and the couch and chair to match for $11 Mrs H. R. Tyler of Salem journeyed to Boston to buy one of the red plush chairs and got the rocker for $8 The high-backed antique rocker with rush seat was bid in for $7.50 with the marble top table by Mrs. Katherine Finnegan, who also bought a companion chair for $8.

MANY PURCHASERS.

The large mirror went to Walter Prince, Roslindale, and the four gilt-framed prints to Mr. Prior for $28

The dresser before the mirror of which the first lady of the land once puffed her hair for State occasions became the property of Mrs. H. M Tate of Somerville, who bid $11.50.

The chiffonier, in the which the Coolidge shirts reposed, went to Mrs. Katherine Finnegan for $9; three cane-seat chairs in the bedroom to Mr. Prior for $8, the night table to Mrs. M. L. Sperl for $11.50, two prints and the lace window curtains to H. Stern, Boston, for $8.50, and the other pair of lace curtains to Dr. F. W. Murdock for $7.50.

FOSTER BAKER OF BASS RIVER KILLS HIMSELF

South Chatham, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Foster Baker, forty, Bass River real estate dealer, killed himself with a 32-calibre revolver in the woods near here today.

Cleveland Bassett, Hyannis and Harwich, was driving Baker and the latter's wife to Chatham, where Mr. Baker had said he wished to make a bank deposit. Mr. Baker asked Mr. Bassett to stop the car a moment, walked down a woods road, and a moment later a shot was heard.

FULLER AT HIS DESK AGAIN TOMORROW

revealed he pieced carefully together from family fragments, that he might not forget whom he was supposed to be.

He laughed away rumors that he had been ill or under treatment overseas, that he had presidential or senatorial aspirations, or that he expected to be appointed ambassador to France or any other country.

SORRY COOLIDGE WON'T RUN.

"I'm sorry to hear President Coolidge's definite announcement that he would not run," said he, "but I suppose he means what he says."

To all but the flock of reporters and photographers and several detectives, he was plain "M. Peter Bond," until he walked down the gangplank. His mother was "Mrs. Flora Bond," and his personal physician, Dr. Charles P. Silvester, of Boston, who accompanied him, was "C. T. Cook."

That is the way they were listed in the White Star booklet but in a more obscure "additional list" further back in the pamphlet appeared his true identity, 'Fuller, Governor Alvan T."

PICKS OUT HATS FOR WIFE.

Fellow passengers, among them Prince Jean Capece Zurlow and the Princess Zurlow, thought the big State Governor exhibited far more courage when he selected wo new hats for his wife in Paris than he did in braving Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers abroad.

And he bought "long pants" for his son Peter, aged five, to wear at the next inaugural, Gov. Fuller admitted he did much work on his inaugural message while in Europe, and on the way over and back.

The Governor quilted a fast one when he said "the only thing that happened reminiscent of the Sacco-Vanzetti case was when Paris storekeepers recognizing me in two or three instances took the precaution to lock the doors.

STORES LOCK HIM IN.

"No, not to keep me out, but after I got in," he laughed. "A bit of mutual protection to safeguard me and make as u that I bought something."

"Folks back home have the idea that you went away in shattered health and that you adopted a fictitious name because of fear of violence on the other side," said one of the interviewers.

"Not at all," replied the Governor. "I didn't have time to take a vacation last Summer and I thought it would be nice to go abroad with mother. We had a delightful trip and I feel much refreshed.

"I expect to be at my desk tomorrow morning."

WHY PETER BOND.

"As for that name Peter Bond, no mystery about that at all. Adopted it to avoid social obligations and not through any personal fear. You see, when I went to France a year ago the American Embassy very courteously went to a lot of fuss to safeguard me.

"This time I decided to dodge all that. I went as a private citizen instead of as an executive, and liked it immensely.

"How did I pick the name? Well, my younger son is Peter and my father's middle name was Bond.

SPOTTED AT ONCE.

"But it was funny how it worked out. I sailed on the Majestic Nov. 5 and ran into Mr. Sedgewick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, and a dozen other Bostonians so you can see how much of a secret it was.

"Business in France is good. The French are now paying taxes. Every one over there is still raving about Lindbergh and the visit of the American Legion.

"I spent a week in London and a week in Paris. No, I didn't go in for much art this trip. Bought just one piece.

SAT FOR PORTRAIT.

"But I sat for my portrait with Augustus John. That was at my wife's request. Mr. John is one of the foremost artists in Europe and a delightful fellow. I arranged with him to come to Boston to paint Mrs. Fuller and the children.

"I visited the proposed Massachusetts memorial in St. Mihiel and feel that the tablets and park make a far better memorial than a monument. Several giant boulders are to be arranged.

"I'm for Mr. Butler for United States senator. He knows I wouldn't run. Haven't very much to hear of the death of Charles F. Choate."

BUYS CLOTHES IN PARIS.

Fuller's party reached London on Armistice Day. He placed a wreath on the grave of the unknown soldier. In Paris he bought clothes for his children and several hats for Mrs. Fuller. He placed a wreath on the grave of the unknown soldier of France under the Arc de Triomphe.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

LAST month a Boston broadcaster made a plea at Washington for an exclusive place in the air The plea was backed by the information that Boston had no such exclusive channel anywhere in the air free from heterodyne squeals. Other cities had.

We listened to other cities broadcasting after 10 o'clock in the evening and found much of interest. What does Boston give after 10 o'clock?

Last night, between 10 and 10:30 there was a bridge game and three dance orchestras. Not much variety there. We had to turn to other cities for something different. And we found plenty. New York, WJZ, had the Gamaliers, John and Bill, Mitchell comedy harmonists, who are well known outside New England. Part of the Mitchell brothers' program was a song, "It May Be Long Chaney, Don't Kick Rin Tin Tin. It May Be Lon Chaney."

* * *

At that time WCX, Detroit, had a quartet, the Troubadours singing "Kentucky Babe." Nice broadcast Time rolled over, WEEI stopped auction bridge and came in with a dance orchestra. At 10:45 p. m. every Boston studio (four) and the Lexington studio had dance music going.

* * *

At that time New York, WEAF, and Schenectady, WGY, were broadcasting light comedy, banjo and barony numbers. WJW, Cincinnati and WHT, Chicago, had rich organ programs. New York, WJZ, had what sounded like a combination of a banjo and an accordion in an interesting pick-up. WFI, Atlantic City, was advertising it had no saw on the boardwalks. That may be so, but we advise dusting off the snow shovels. WOR, Newark, was benefitting civilization with the latest news. At 11 o'clock the score stood nineteen dance orchestras broadcasting between 30 metres and 216 metres.

New York, WJZ, recently started a series of nightly broadcasts called slumber music. The broadcaster admitted there was too much dance music late in the evening and not much else.

* * *

It would seem that here is an untouched field for a commercial broadcast. The chain could gain an enormous amount of good will—which it cannot overlook—by offering the radio public an excellent hour after 10 or 10:30 each evening. It is true that this seems unprofitable now But five years ago any radio advertising seemed unprofitable. Yet if some of the famous "hours" stopped broadcasting now it would be the passing of a definite and beloved part of American life.

The inevitable letter pops up and we read:

"Noting A. E. Laflam's letter in your column tonight I am making my first attempt to write about my set. My test was made between 10 and 3 Monday night. As I acknowledge was an exceptionally good night for receiving.

"While he has a five-tube set and got good distance, mine not being so far, I think the fact that my set is a home-made one-tube affair affects that.

"There were some stations which were faint and I am not sure of the call letters or what they were, so if you can help me I will be thankful

The list follows, might say I am writing, using a water line for a ground.

WMCA, WEAF, New York; WTAM, Cleveland; Chicago, KYW WLIB, WJJD, WOK WHT; WCGU Sea Gate; WPG, Atlantic City, WOR Newark; WJR, Detroit WLW Cincinnati; WHAS, Troy; WSM, Nashville; WLBW, Oil City; CFCI Toronto; WHK, Cleveland; KMOX St. Louis; WKBQ, New York. And the following, KLA?, KLKD? KFKB?

"H. L. FITZGERALD,
230 Highland Avenue, Malden.

"P. S.—Excuse color of paper, hope it don't hurt your eyes. It's all there is, there ain't no more.

"H. L. F."

From which it can be seen that Mr. Fitzgerald has a one-tube radio that works hard.

—If a gentleman could swear!

Three days now, and the young chief still absent from his band out there in the lot. Three galling days of listening to his little sister who refers to him (not without scorn) as "mama's little martyr." Three days of wearing a towel about the neck destined for the collar of a conqueror . . . if only a gentleman could swear!

Never neglect a sore throat.

Look upon it as a warning of an oncoming cold, or worse, and take definite steps to check it.

At the first sign of throat irritation, rinse the mouth and gargle with Listerine full strength. Do it several times a day. Many's the cold and sore throat that this simple precaution has nipped in the bud.

Listerine is antiseptic, and the moment it enters the mouth attacks the countless disease-producing bacteria that lodge there waiting till resistance is low to strike.

Sharp changes of temperature weaken resistance, and crowds pass bacteria along to thrive in stuffy homes and offices. So, during the winter months use Listerine every day for your own protection. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

CHOATE'S FINAL PLEA WON BIG SUIT

Even in death, Attorney Charles F. Choate, who collapsed in Federal court a week ago, was victorious today when a directed verdict for the Boston Elevated was ordered in the $1,500,000 suit brought against the road by the Union Car Advertising Company of New York.

Attorney Choate, veteran of the Boston bar, had argued his case for a directed verdict for the defendant, and Special Counsel for the plaintiff completed the sum his counter argument, which was also directed.

Several hours later Attorney Choate died in Massachusetts General Hospital.

Judge Hugh H. Brown directed the jury to bring the verdict

RAIN AND WARMER IN HUB, SAYS WEATHER MAN

An extensive storm area centered in Missouri, early today, is predicted to move into New England tonight, carrying rain-laden clouds in its wake.

In its passage eastward the disturbance has caused two storms from 6 to 20 degrees, mainly in Ohio Valley and Western Pennsylvania, and will cause a slight rise here over the next 24 hours.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Cloudy, probably rain; warmer; rising temperature tonight and tomorrow; fresh southerly winds, increasing.

FIRE IMPERILS MOURNERS IN BROOKLINE

More than 50 persons, including mourners attending the wake of Evelyn Farae of Kenyon street, Brookline and eight firemen in the four-story brick building, were endangered today when fire starting on a fourth floor apartment spread to the roof and downward to the third floor, causing damage of $2,500.

The blaze started in the apartment of R M Hangood, on the top floor of No. 39, according to fire officials, and worked its way between the floors in both directions.

Firemen were forced to battle their way through dense smoke as they cut away flooring to get at the flames.

The Burke family lived in the opposite side of the house, but smoke flooded the apartment, causing grave concern to the family of the dead girl.

The other families left their apartments but returned as soon as the blaze was extinguished.

Get your power as you like it

—A. C. house-current or battery

STILL undecided about radio? Try an Atwater Kent Receiver and the new Model E Speaker. You just can't help being captivated.

Let your family really enjoy radio music that's true to the artists who make it. Let the steadfast reliability of Atwater Kent Radio please you as it is pleasing more than a million others.

The price is enjoyable, too. You pay for the essentials of good radio—not for complications.

House-current or battery power

The House-current set pictured here uses the new A. C. tubes. Through the compact Power Supply, included with the receiver, it draws all its power from the house lighting circuit. All you do is turn the electricity on and off with the switch on the receiver. The current costs only a fraction of a cent an hour.

If you prefer battery operation, try one of the other Atwater Kent models. They're better than ever, will satisfy for a lifetime. And look at the prices! They're low because so many buy. Either kind of set—house-current or battery—may be installed in consoles designed to accommodate Atwater Kent Radio.

GIRLS ASK AID FOR FAMILIES

Cheer Is Sought for Younger Brothers and Sisters at Yuletide

Letter after letter has been received by the Goodfellow Editor telling of the struggles of young girls to feed and clothe and shelter their motherless sisters and brothers. The problem which these girls face is a serious one, and it is with them 365 days in the year.

At Christmas time, however, their struggle assumes a tragic aspect as they think of the disappointment of the little ones at not receiving the clothing, gifts upon which Lady Luck set their hearts.

Here's a letter, one out of many that tell of the brave girls battle.

"My mother died ten years ago, leaving me the care of six younger children. The baby now is eleven years old. My father is not very strong. I myself went under an operation for appendicitis at the City Hospital, so am not able to help any this Christmas.

This girl will be very thankful if someone will supply the Christmas dinner for the family.

CLOTHING ASKED FOR.

Here's a little girl in Roxbury, without father or mother, wrote to ask for some toys and some warm clothing for herself and her four-year-old brother and sister. They are living with their uncle and aunt. Little Madeline is eight and she is quite ought to have her school teacher endorse her letter of asking.

Another little girl, twelve years old, writes that her mother died recently and her father is in a sanitarium because of [illegible]. She has two brothers and [illegible] sister, the youngest a year and a half old. He would like some toys but clothes most, and something for their daddy."

"I am a broken-hearted mother with four little girls to bring up alone," writes a South Boston woman. The children's ages are ten, eight, five and a half and three and a half. They need gloves, stockings and clothing.

These are only a few of the hundreds of letters that are coming to the Goodfellow Editor every day, and they are by no means the most pathetic cases. There is much work to be done by the Goodfellow Club between now and Christmas if those mothers and children are to be made comfortable and happy.

ENROLL AT ONCE.

Kind-hearted readers are urged to enroll immediately in the Goodfellow Club and to assist in this work of spreading Christmas cheer. To join the Goodfellow Club it is necessary merely to write a letter to the Goodfellow Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square. It is in stating your intention to try to make some little family happy on Christmas.

State in your letter the sort of gift you would like to make, or the kind of family you would like to assist. You may make your gift in the form of food or clothing or toys. If you do not wish to undertake a more personal task send your gift in cash to the Goodfellow Editor, with instructions as to how it is to be spent.

The Goodfellow Editor will be happy to advise your attention to families specifically mentioned in these columns, but your attention is called to the fact that in addition there are hundreds of cases just as worthy as those mentioned. If you choose, therefore, you may distribute in your letter the name of a family chosen by you has already been provided for, the gift may be made to another family of similar circumstances.

STATE DEMANDS FIRST DEGREE VERDICT AGAINST WIDOW

LILLIENDAHL DEATH CASE SPEEDS TO END AS JURY HEARS CLOSING ARGUMENTS

defendant, Mrs. Margaret L. Lilliendahl and her cousin, claire friend," Willis Beach.

The defendants are jointly accused of slaying Mrs. Lilliendahl's aged husband, Dr. William A. Lilliendahl, in a concerted plan at Hammonton, on Sept. 15 last.

In New Jersey a first degree verdict can mean one of two things, life imprisonment or the electric chair. Simple deprivation the "severest penalty"—the chair.

His closing argument lasted but four minutes, a record in cases of the kind.

"If Beach is guilty Mrs. Lilliendahl is guilty," he roared. "I believe the State has proved them guilty. I ask a verdict of first degree murder against both defendants."

Mrs. Lilliendahl wept aloud as Hinkle thus demanded her life for the life she is accused of taking. Beach blanched at the words and seemed to cringe in his chair.

When Hinkle had finished young Edison Hedges, attorney for Beach summed up.

Like A Reunion

Hedges looked like a class-day orator as he took the floor and launched into a defense argument having for its foundation a "lack of motive."

He painted a "love" picture, scorned a money motive and ridiculed jealousy as a cause for the murder.

"All you have to do is look upon Mrs Lilliendahl to know what I say is the truth" he declared, gazing upon the black-clad widow who continually dabbed at her face with a handkerchief.

The final day of the trial took on the aspect of a family reunion.

In addition to Beach and Mrs. Lilliendahl, who on first entering court smiled broadly at everybody, there were present eighty-year-old Alfred Lilliendahl, the widow's son; Mrs. Amana Bach, wife of the co-defendant, and Mrs. Lilliendahl's brother, Sherwood Thompson.

Counsel for the defendants arrived at court in a group, laughing and chatting gaily. The faces of the jurors were wreathed in smiles as the end drew near as an artist's drawing board. He played with them throughout the fateful hours of the day, pausing only now and then to smile up at his mother.

The widow's little son came into court with a box of crayons as his

Atty. Robert H. McCarter, of Mrs. Lilliendahl's counsel, veteran attorney of the Hall-Mills case, followed Hedges, voicing an eloquent closing plea for the widow.

He began by contrasting Mrs. Lilliendahl to the "queer, drunken, cocktail drinking, flapper type of woman who is so common nowadays," and declaring that a woman of her "character and standing" could not have possibly committed such a crime as killing her own husband.

He lashed the testimony of many of the State's star witnesses, including Mrs. Caroline Tamberlain, Vineland postmistress, who told of the "Peggy Anderson" letters that Beach and the widow swapped in the days before tragedy entered their lives.

Asks for Acquittal

It was the whispered gossip of Mrs. Tamberlain that cast suspicion on the widow and Beach when police first were probing Dr. Lilliendahl's death, he said. This gossip linked the widow and her poultry-raising neighbor in a "love affair" which he said never really existed.

"Beware a gossiping woman!" he cried. "Look out for her. She will wreck your home—any home. This gossiping woman here tried to ruin both Beach and this home-loving wife at the bar."

McCarter spoke for more than three hours. He closed by declaring that Mrs. Lilliendahl's claim that two negro bandits slew her husband was true and that both Beach and the widow were entitled to a prompt acquittal.

In concluding his address, McCarter spoke directly to the five women talesmen who are holding the fate of the widow and Beach in their hands.

"I never saw five more intelligent looking women in my life than you here on the jury," he said. "I am sure you will see that justice is done in behalf of this Christian wife and mother who sits here before you."

The room was crowded to the doors as the curtain began to descend on the trial—one of Jersey's greatest legal dramas.

In his closing argument Prosecutor Hinkle said: "Your honor and members of the jury, on the indictment handed down by the grand jury of the State against the defendants here I will ask for a verdict of murder in the first degree against both parties before the bar.

"These defendants were carrying on a secret love affair. That I believe has been proved. As a result of that affair we have shown you that Dr. Lilliendahl came to his sudden end through violence.

"Mrs. Lilliendahl is the only person, who, at first, appeared to be with him when he died. But it has now been shown that the other defendant, Beach, also was there at the end.

"Both Are Guilty!"

"Deception from both of these defendants followed, but only slipped a cog, as the testimony showed. We produced a witness to whom one defendant openly confessed the murder. That testimony has not been impeached.

"If Mrs Lilliendahl is guilty, so is Beach. If he is guilty, so is she. Margaret Lilliendahl was there and knew of this murder.

"Her story of the bandit negroes is false. I believe the State has made that clear. We ask for a first degree verdict against both defendants."

Atty. Edison Hedges followed the prosecutor, closing for Beach. He said:

"There may be a great many points about this case which the jury will not be able to recall. I was wondering what motive the State would impute to Beach to prompt him to kill Dr. Lilliendahl.

"Well, there might have been love, jealousy, money.

"What money did Dr. Lilliendahl have? A little, a bit of jewelry, a small mortgage on some property in Mountain Lakes. Now, I think you will agree that money could not have been a motive for the killing."

Love Not Motive

"Another motive which they have hinted to him is love. But has that motive been proved? I say it has not. Love could not have been the cause of the killing here.

"Dr. Lilliendahl and his wife were a happy couple. There is no evidence to show that there was any real friction between them. There was never any mention of divorce. Mrs. Beach did not even have to take the stand to tell you that ever-to-be-used-for-the-same against the insinuations made in this room. All you have to do is look at her to know that what I say is the truth.

"The testimony of the robe-twisting Mermaid Park is, to say the least, unbelievable. In his story Bark mentions a man Frank Thompson and a 'Bill Belzer.' Who are they? I tell you they do not exist. They are purely fictitious characters. Why hasn't the State called upon them to come and substantiate the story of this man Bark? I will leave you to answer that question as you may."

Hedges then bitterly attacked Bark's record and declared the trick reporter's testimony should be entirely disregarded in a case where the lives of a man and a woman were at stake.

Pleads for Beach

Hedges charged that Burk could scarcely write, and intimating that Bark had lied when he called himself a "lawyer."

He read from Bark's testimony and questioned the veracity and good faith of practically every answer the witness gave.

"The defense charges that Bark tried to "sell out" to them for $500 before he went to the prosecutor with his 'confession' story," said Hedges.

He didn't go to the prosecutor until almost the end of October, although he says the confession took place on October 1.

"Why did he wait? Because he was after money. He was trying to get $500 from Mrs. Lilliendahl's lawyer, Charles Phillips.

"Phillips chased him out of town and then he went to the prosecutor."

Hedges said that Bark's apparent familiarity with the case was gained from reading about it in the papers.

"That's how he knew Beach had jewelry in hock in Baltimore," he said, "not because he had heard Beach say so to Thompson as he claimed.

"This Bark has no home that we can find, although he says he comes from Texas. He is a wanderer.

"Bark said he was at the boarding house where he says Beach went to borrow money from him, for only a month. The son of he landlady said Bark lived there five months. What reason could that youth have for telling anything but the truth?"

"Beach could not have committed this murder even if he had wanted to. A carpenter who is a man of honor in his community said he saw Beach at the latter's home at 12:30 on the murder day. Another witness has told of driving from south Vineland to Hammonton in 46 minutes and considering it good time.

"Even if Beach had made better time and got all the way to the scene of the crime in 15 minutes from the time he left home he would have been too late. It would then have been 1:15, and testimony shows that the murder was done long before that time."

In explaining Beach's sudden flight from home while police were asking the jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal, he had spoken for one hour and a half.

Atty. Robert H. McCarter, counsel for Mrs. Lilliendahl, then delivered his closing arguments in behalf of the widow.

"Crime Without Gloves"

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "you have listened to more than 150 witnesses and more than 2,000 pages of evidence. You could not possibly recall all that you have heard. You might forget some of the important points, and so I shall recall these points to you.

"On September 15 a most brutal shocking crime took place on what has been called 'murder road.' There were no gloves on when this crime was done. No refinement. It was brutality personified

"If such a husband as he was could not conceivably have accomplished her purpose in the terrible manner in which this killing was done.

Her husband was ill. Had long been ill. If she had wanted his end she could have secured it merely by withholding her constant care. But she gave that care and it was due to her loving attentions that Dr Lilliendahl lived as long as he did."

McCarter stressed the fact that the killing was staged just off a main road.

Plain, Country Folk

"If this crime was planned," he said, "why did they not choose a by-road, a place of safe seclusion? You have seen Mrs. Lilliendahl. A woman of refinement, lineage, grace Look at her again now! Do you believe she could commit a crime like this?

"Her reputation has been unblemished through all her long career in the false glories of one or two State prosecutions."

Two attorneys passed to defend a family photo of Dr. Lilliendahl, Mrs. Lilliendahl, their son and their dog.

"Is not that proof positive of the love that made these people a family?" he asked. "Just look again at this woman. Is she not a woman of lineage, culture? Does she look like the cigarette-smoking, cocktail drinking type they have tried to picture her here?

"No! She lived a Christian life. Her minister has testified to that. So has the principal of the school her son attended.

"Are they collarless things, who spend their days in parks or flats more? No, they are one of us!"

Bark's Wife Asks Police to Guard Her From Hubby

Baltimore, Dec. 7 (A P.)—At the insistence of Mrs. Samuel Bark, police today posted a guard to protect her from her husband, who is returning from testifying in the Lilliendahl murder trial.

When Bark was on the stand, Mrs. Bark said she intended to obtain a divorce on account of the notoriety he gained. Today she expressed fears for her safety.

Bark said he was a Texas "rope twister and lawyer."

Widow Nibbles at Candy as Lawyers Plead for Life

May's Landing, N. J., Dec 7.—While final pleas were being made for his life in the Lilliendahl murder case here today Willis Beach, accused chicken-raiser, sat quietly beside his loyal wife, chin propped in one hand and head turned away from her.

He seemed scarcely to listen to his lawyer's words.

Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, co-defendant, seated on the other side of Mrs. Beach, nibbled peppermints.

pressing the murder Attorney Hedges said that the persistence of news photographers with their incessant flashlights so wore Beach out that he fled lest his weak heart give way under the strain.

"He was under bond at that time as a material witness." Hedges continued, "but he is not a lawyer. He read the bond to mean that he must surely surrender himself when the court wanted him, and this he did. He did not understand that it was an order not to leave the jurisdiction

"He went to the home of friends to escape the reporters, photographers and the abuse of the notorious detectives of the prosecutor's office.

Who Conceived Crime?

"The fact that he came back, that he is here today, shows his intentions and he should not be criticised

"Who thought of this crime in the first place? Whose evil mind conceived such an act as the murder of a husband by his wife or by her connivance? No one but the prosecutor would have thought of such a thing, the same man who said at the time of the killing that an inquest was not needed.

"Why was it not needed? Had the prosecutor already at that time made up his mind so fully that evidence was unimportant to him?

"The evidence for Willis Beach is an alibi, and every hour of his day has been thoroughly accounted for. Even had there been a motive, even though he had wanted to commit this murder, Willis Beach could not have done it. He was never in the right place."

Hedges concluded his address by

More About Hospital 200 Patients Per Day Quite a System | Efficient Staff Interested in Jobs Victory Remedy?

By NICK FLATLEY

DAILY PARADE OF 200 GRID PATIENTS

SPEAKING, as we were, of Harvard's athletic hospital, one of the most surprising things about it was the preparedness. An entire room was packed with all sorts of supplies.

"There is enough here," we were informed, "to take care of every kind of an injury to every Harvard athlete, if they all came on the same day."

As some 200 young men parade past the medical eyes in the course of any busy day in the football season you can see for yourself tha the thoroughness of the system applies to every possible detail.

Nick Flatley

Dr. Richards, presiding genius, gathered his first ideas of the value of organization from P. D. Haughton, who was as great an organizer as sport ever knew. Dr. Tommy was football manager, when P. D. was coaching, and he watched the Old Master closely. It was easy for any one on the inside to see that Haughton's success was due principally to his passionate devotion to detail.

His teams were great because every player knew every last little thing about his particular job. He demanded perfect physical condition in his athletes, and he had a real genius in charge, Dr. Nichols. Manager Richards, who was headed for the medical school, observed that pair work, and when he decided to step up and take over the job, he knew what it was all about.

He is still reaching out, and experimenting. A sprained ankle, to his corps, is more than just a flock of twisted muscles and ligaments. It is something to be photographed, and observed. Some ankles respond to one sort of treatment, others to another. The total results are averaged, so to speak, and the best method decided thereby.

It is enlightening to know that nowadays the ordinary sprain can be cured within a week, where a few years ago twice that time was the normal length of convalescence. Which follows from close and careful study of the myriad sprains that occur in the course of an athletic year at a big college like Harvard.

HARVARD HAS BEEN CHARGED WITH BEING TOO CAREFUL ABOUT ATHLETES. BUT THE YOUNG MEN WHO HAVE TO BE DOCTORED DO NOT MARCH OUT INTO LIFE WITH TWISTED LIMBS, OR A FEW MORE OR LESS IMPORTANT PIECES OF THEMSELVES MISSING. WHICH, IF YOU FIGURE IT OUT, IS MUCH MORE IMPORTANT THAN A VICTORY HERE AND THERE.

EFFICIENT STAFF HELPS SUCCESS OF SYSTEM

DR. RICHARDS refuses to say anything about himself, but he is willing to laud his assistants. He has collected a little group, all as earnest and sincere as himself. Their hearts are in their work, and that is the answer to their success.

Charlie Muhle is the right hand man around the hospital. He is young, but can be rated as a genius in his own particular line. He is an X-ray expert, who knows both the technical and the mechanical ends of that game. He started out to be a mariner, and was within two months of getting his master's license, when he decided to take up the study of physio-therapy.

He hopped off his steamship, went into the naval hospital at Baltimore and then came to Harvard. He was put through the Victor X-ray course as part of his job, and in a few years has developed into a professor of real ability.

Johnny Fadden, another assistant, is working his way through Harvard intending to go through medical school. He was a ball boy with the baseball team when Dr. Richards drafted him, and now he's a pretty good doctor, before he is within two years of taking up the book part of that profession.

John Wallen was physical director at Annapolis for five years, and then athletic director at Middlesex School, prior to joining the Harvard corps. So he knows the business. Eric Hindby, one year removed from Sweden, was an instructor in a gymnasium school in his athletic country before coming here, and Frank Nasman had built quite a rep as wrestler in that same land, ere he decided to mend muscles, rather than rend them.

And, of course, there's John Anderson, the daddy of 'em all, who has special charge of the varsity football men through the important weeks of the grid season. Quite a staff, in knowledge, experience and ambition—a coterie that is out in front in a practically new and what promises to be a decidedly lucrative profession. Football, a million dollar game, is getting so that million dollar doctors will be in demand.

The Crimson corps work so many miracles that it will not be surprising if they come up with a victory prescription before long.

Young Griffo, of Ring Fame, Is Dead

PASSES AWAY IN POVERTY

Will Be Buried in Potters Field Unless Friends Defray the Expenses

New York, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—Alfred Griffith, 55, known to fans of 25 years ago as Young Griffo, died suddenly early today in a basement room on the West Side, where he had lived for several years.

In the absence of a report by the medical examiner, acute indigestion was believed to be cause of his death.

Fortune turned its back on the once-famous fighter in recent years. He earned a precarious livelihood peddling papers and doing odd jobs.

He was often seen in the doorways near the Great Light directing recounting stories of by gone years. He had taken on weight and tipped the scales at 200 pounds.

CRIED, "I'M CHOKING"

Mrs. Rose Collins, who had provided him with living quarters for the last twelve years within charge, said that he returned home about midnight last night as was his usual custom. Shortly before five o'clock this morning, she said, he knocked on the door of the kitchen on the first floor in the rear.

When she asked him what was the matter, he said:

"I'm choking. I'm sick."

Prospero Pansa, who occupies a room near the kitchen, came out to offer his assistance. As Pansa entered the hallway Griffo collapsed in his arms, and died soon afterwards.

Mrs. Collins, the widow of a former saloon keeper, said the fighter was a close friend of her late husband. They acquaintance, she said, dated from the time Griffo, then in the heyday of his fighting career, entered Collins' West Side saloon, dropped a handkerchief on the floor, stood on it and offered to "buy drinks for the house" if anyone could land a punch on him. No one was able to hit him.

LIVED IN BASEMENT.

About twelve years ago, after her husband had retired she said, Griffo took up residence in the basement room, came to their home in West Forty-second street and followed them when they moved to her present address after her husband's death. She provided the basement room for him.

When the police went to the room to gather his possessions, they found that they consisted only of the clothes that he had worn the day before.

Mrs. Collins said that unless his friends raised a fund to pay his funeral he would undoubtedly be buried in Potter's field as she could not afford to pay for the expenses of the funeral. Nightwatchers in the midtown district who knew him indicated their intentions of donating toward the expenses of the burial.

B. U. Terriers Tackle Brown Five Tonight

Boston University will open its basketball season with Brown University at the St. Botolph street gymnasium tonight. The game will also be the opener for Brown.

The game will be the first important one in Greater Boston this year. Coach "Tuss" McLaughry had a crack quintet last year, and he is expected to have a team fully as good when the season gets under way.

It is reported that Brown will not be able to start its first five, due to the fact that a few of the veterans are suffering from foot ball injuries and have been unable to report.

If this is true it looks as though Boston University has a chance to avenge its 43 to 36 defeat last year. There are four of the men who started against Brown again on hand, but Gerry O'Brien, one of the stars last year reported late for practice and he will not start.

Boston University will have four letter men and one new man in the game tonight. The newcomer is Joe Soutere. Soutere never played basketball for the Terriers before because the fact that he is a junior. He has proved a valuable addition to the squad, however, to win a starting position over three of last year's letter men.

In addition to this game there are another battle that will be staged between two native Australians between Boston University and the Freshmen basketball team from the Wentworth Institute Five.

CHICAGO CUBS DREW BIGGER GATE THAN YANKS

Chicago, Dec. 7 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs baseball team drew a big record home crowd of 1,150,000 during the 1927 season, the secretary reported at the club's annual meeting last night. The mark eclipsed even that of the New York Yankees. A large melon from the season's proceeds was cut for the stockholders.

MEEHAN MEETS N. Y. U. BOARD

New York, Dec. 7.—Jack Meehan will meet the board of athletic control of New York University tonight and after the conference will decide whether he will remain as head football coach at the institution.

Meehan claims he received word operation from the board in the past. If he is given a free rein in future he declares he will continue as mentor. Otherwise, he will not renew his contract, which expires December 31.

"Chick" has let it be known that the question of salary had nothing to do with his threat to quit.

PENN'S ELEVEN WORKS OUT INDOORS FOR COAST GAME

Philadelphia, Dec. 7.—Penn's football squad was again kept off Franklin Field because of the sloppy condition the work being held on the Palestra. It is predicted that this will continue without change until the team leaves for the coast on Dec. 12.

Following signal drill the squad was divided up into teams and allowed to play basketball for some additional exercise.

Eight events will feature the exhibitions by the girls and these include pair reatures, free skating, singles, dancing, and school figures, all Olympic events.

U. S. SPEED SKATERS COMING.

The speed skating merchants representing the United States in the next Olympics and who will be here tomorrow night are Irving Jaffee, Olympic junior distance champion; Valentine Davis, Joe Moore, Irving Jaffe and Allie Ross, all of whom speedsters have been training for the past four weeks at the Newton Garden and will be in excellent condition for the tests tomorrow night.

This will be the only appearance of the American figure and speed skaters before they leave for the Olympics. Three hours of entertainment followed by general skating should draw a large crowd to the big carnival event tomorrow night, tickets for which can be procured at the Arena box office and downtown sporting goods houses.

BOBBY SCOTT ELECTED CAPTAIN OF COLBY TEAM

Waterville, Me., Dec. 7.—Robert W. "Bobby" Scott, '29, of Malden, was elected captain of the Colby football team.

Scott was one of the outstanding backfield men of the team last season, being noted for his quarterback generalship and his ability to punt. Maine eleven. He is also a veteran in boxing, playing a welterweight. He is an outfielder on the baseball squad.

He prepared for Colby at Wilton Academy and Kent's Hill School, where he participated in all varsity sports.

MALONE IS ON WAY HERE TO BOX MELLO

Jock Malone, in the role of a ring wrecker, is today rolling towards Boston on a fast train from Chicago.

Malone is today flashing in the best form of his brilliant career and says he will knock out Al Mello, Lowell welterweight, inside of five rounds in their scheduled ten-round bout at a Suffolk A. A. show at the new Boston Arena on Monday night.

Malone has been the boxing sensation of the indoor season. While champions and near champions have foundered through bouts in our fistic hive Malone has shown specialist fighting cases.

During the past month, Malone has beaten three of the leading contenders for the middleweight crown.

Max Rosenbloom, who held Tiger Flowers to a draw, was tamed by Malone.

Mickey Langford, Chicago welterweight, then mixed for a bout at Malone. And the match was made.

"If I don't lick Langford, I will walk from Chicago to the Pacific" chirped Malone.

Malone didn't have to walk.

On the Fred Reinhuber turn hoisted up. And he took it on the chin from Malone.

There was then a cry from New England for an opponent for Mello. None of the available welterweights were considered good enough to send against Al.

Let's kick Mello off and not ask questions," piped up Malone.

Mello is a middleweight and Malone is a welterweight. After much haggling, the match was made at 147 pounds.

We'll get the answer to the Malone-Mello quarrel Monday night.

Matchmaker Tom Gorman is determined to stage a great number of shows and all in all the season promises to be a record entertainment for fans of the sport. Gorman has signed up Jock Malone, Mickey Mello, Jack Delaney and Mel Coleman as headliners.

Fred Gordon, who came to the Bruins in a trade from Detroit, is coming along fine. Gordon got off to a late start and was out in the best of condition when he reported to Manager Art Ross. Gordon is surely a team player. He never plays for himself. He's a team player all the time. That trait was exemplified in the Marion game at the Arena when he passed up a chance for a score and after getting inside the defense and with an open net, he passed to Marion, who scored a better position to score. The Gordon type of player is rare in any branch of sport.

Many of the Tigers will visit their homes in Canada this week. After the Quebec game last night, the Cornants, Pondi and Joe, hurried to Cornwall, while Burke, "Harley" Boyd, "Whitey" Field and Manager Eddie Powers went to Toronto, George Redding to Hamilton and Captain Herb Rheaume down "Sonny" Manning up to his home in Ottawa, Bob Taylor Eddie Gutman and Red Hackey returned to Boston. The Tigers on lease will return Saturday morning.

Many good Red Cross shots are now hanging, nets are filled every day in Boston Arena on Canford Ave. See Classification 130.

PERE MARQUETTE TO OPEN WITH STS. PETER AND PAUL

The Pere Marquette team will open its basketball season Saturday evening at the South Boston High School, when it meets the strong Sts. Peter and Paul A. A.

Both these clubs are members of the new Greater Boston Basketball League, which has for members the Pere Marquette, Sts. Peter and Paul A. A., Richard Hill K. of C., Chelsea Town Elks, East Cambridge Civic Club, Fitton A. C. and Oxo Club of Brockton.

Urban Signs

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Luke Urban has signed a three-year contract to again coach football and basketball at Canisius College here.

Crimson Squash Teams in Action

In an attempt to advance the university team standing from second to first place in the annual tournament held by Manager Squash Racquets Association, the four university squash racquet teams meet Saturday at the Harvard Club in Boston. The Crimson team is confident of victory, according to Coach Harry Cowdin.

Team A, Manager Ted Hooper, Dick Gaut, last year's captain, Bob Bridgham and Jim Lamar of Milton, the latter an Olympic fencing team member, and Joe Hill, Boston K. of C. squash champion, will meet Johnny Dyer of Athol in a skirmish.

Joe Dwyer of Cambridge will meet Al Stevens of Weymouth in a second match and the two first round pairings will be arranged in a day or so.

PASSING THE PUCK

By Bill Grimes

Norman "Dutch" Gainor, the former "Timber Packer," has won his spurs. Within a period of three weeks, Gainor has established himself as one of the best prospects among the newcomers to the National Hockey League. He was signed up as a defence man, used as a spare wing during the preliminary practice season, thrown in to fill the gap when Frank Fredrickson was injured and is now first string centre ice man of the Bruins.

In every game he has played, Gainor has played a clever article of hockey. Although not as flashy as some of the other N. H. L. players Gainor has piled off some sensational plays. The former Timber Packer's forte is his ability to skate, which he is doing every second he is on the ice. He is deceptively clever when he reaches the scene, and will doubtless be more clever as soon as he acquaints himself with the various styles of play of his opponents.

With all due respect to Gainor and the band of hockey players that played since he battled his way to a regular job with the Bruins, he is by no means the peer of Jimmy Herberts in the eyes of the unbiased fans. Herberts is one of the best rearing ice men in hockey and by far the best that the Bruins ever had on their roster. Gainor is both effective and sensational. He can take more hard checks than any forward in the game and still show at top form. And, what is still more important, he is a scorer.

Herberts is playing his fourth season with the Bruins. He is the only survivor of the original outfit. Each season players have been brought here to take Jimmie's job, but regardless of the flowery press notices lavished the newcomers, "color" Herberts is still the peer of anything the Bruins have ever carried. With his natural speed and ability, the "happy go lucky" fearless Jimmie could become an outstanding figure in hockey.

MICHIGAN IDEA MAY SPLIT UP CONFERENCE

Chicago, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Indications around the big Ten are that Michigan will do all the pioneering relative to maintaining a full school year if the conference meet Feb. 11.

The idea of having two varsity eleven in competitions, adopted by Michigan last fall, and apparently a success, is to be followed by Iowa and other colleges may give the record experts some additional moments of worry.

It will be all right so long as there is a clear line between the "varsity" and "junior varsity," observers point out, but the close sections may be a puzzle if two evenly matched teams, each playing practice schedules, are turned out by a single school.

Critics point out that while the loss of two teams will give more players a chance to participate in competition, it hardly could be considered encouraging to have employed with two games to a team and two squads to be selected.

While no one can reach in the future to say what Harry Hanlon, of Northwestern, is capably demonstrated at Evanston, Ill., as a coach it is to anyone's guess such a unit as those usually became of shortages of material.

Hanlon himself predicted that if any school stuck to the one-for-conference schedule, it would be run on a two-team basis it will mean a split in the big Ten. As it is now composed, Hanlon will have only one team on the football field next fall, he said.

Coach A. A. Stagg of Chicago is the reason no big ten rule to the two-team basis can be passed. Stagg, who coached at Yale, Iowa and Pennsylvania and intention to develop two teams.

OVEREMPHASIS NOT SEEN AT WESLEYAN

Middletown, Ct., Dec. 7 (A.P.)—Overemphasis of football is not seen because Wesleyan won the "little Three championship" for the first time in nine years" at that institution, according to an editorial in the Wesleyan Alumnus published today.

The editors of the graduate publication believe in the primary values of the curriculum and in student activities which are akin to the curriculum.

The many values of inter-collegiate athletics are not under-estimated, however, for the Alumnus goes on to say:

"From time to time, the notion has been more or less prevalent on the campus that because football is going, as it is generally, at first glance, it has been overemphasized in many colleges and has the ruling Chance Wesleyan should be, it is not true.

Bill Wesleyan is not afford to keep up with the Joneses in the matter of football. The college must continue to be in the Wesleyan tradition and to be loyal to the ideals for which it stands. Wesleyan should not be a football factory."

Fighters Will Soon Be Forced to Fight

New York, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—By rule of the New York State Athletic Commission, fighters will be forced to fight or forfeit their purses. Any boxer who does not make a determined effort to win a bout will be suspended for a period of not less than 60 days, it was announced today by Commissioner Muldoon.

Muldoon said that the commission has been receiving numerous complaints that boxers were not trying to win their bouts.

BIG CROWD SEES CHAMP WORKOUT

Mandell Polishes Up in Toland's Gym for Sacco Bout Friday

Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., lightweight champion of the world, who is bound to reign on the peak of the division for many years to come, made his first bow in the Hub before a capacity crowd at Jim Toland's Gym, a crowd of such proportions that scores of fans were unable to gain admittance.

The black-eyed champion, born in Italy and brought to this country when he was three years old, exhibited all his ring prowess in his opening workout and he trained side by side with Jack Kane of Denver and Johnny Barrett of Cambridge in a training session, which kept the large crowd of fans on their toes.

The lightweight king was in the tub only two hours before he was stripped for action in the gym. He is a serious worker, and never allows anything to interfere with his training. Never does he remain out of bed after 9 p.m. And his success in boxing is attributed to his style of living.

Mandell was accompanied to the tub by Eddie Kane, his manager, who was last here with Mike Gibbons, and Teddy Boden of Chicago, who is credited with discovering the champion.

Intersectional rivalry which hasn't existed here in many years has cropped out again and East Boston and South Boston will be pitted against each other when Danny Sears clashes with Charlie Donahue in an eight rounder.

Terry Parker, North End boy who has won 13 starts without a defeat, clashes with George Beilise of Lewiston in another eight. Beilise has won 12 straight fights in New England.

Three sizes also are on the card. Vansey Norden, Roxbury, meets Joe Bertinetti, Halifax, while Harry Shu Chinese flyweight, faces Frisco Dennis of Charlestown. Ray McPeck of El Paso meets Connie Joseph of Lynn in another six.

64 Deer Killed by Sportsmen to Date

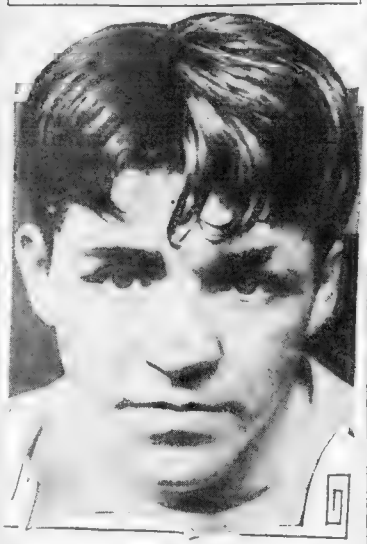
Worcester, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—The number of deer killed in Massachusetts during the first two days of the season was increased to 64 by reports compiled today. Forty-two had been reported on the first day, but unofficial figures added seven more to this total for Monday five in the vicinity of Orange and two in Templeton.

The number killed Tuesday was reported as 15. The largest deer brought in was a buck weighing 240 pounds. It was shot in Dana by John Higgins of Barre.

Millionaire Tackle

Fred Miller, regular left tackle on Notre Dame football team, is worth $1,000,000. He weighs 190 pounds.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP



SAMMY MANDELL

Mandell meets Jimmy Sacco in the feature bout of the Argonne A. A. show at Mechanics Building Friday night.

Demands on Champion Heavy, Says Tunney

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion.

It would be the height of insincerity for me to say that the heavyweight championship is not one of my most highly prized possessions, but the gold of celebrity has become as so much dross. Yet I cannot help feeling that the possession of the title has moments when its burden is almost enormous.

These are moments when I look back with actual longing to those days when I was just plain Gene Tunney, one of the neighborhood boys of Greenwich Village, distinguishable from the rest by not the slightest evidence of being a personality of any particular kind.

There are moments when my time, my actions and almost my thoughts are not my own; when days upon days follow during which every waking hour is taken up with meeting people, keeping engagements and answering all manners of inquiries, meantime trying to get in a little exercise for my own benefit.

"BE yourself," is a colloquialism that has come to mean something in modern philosophy.

It is the thing I often long to do but can't, for seldom do I have the chance. If my desire on a certain morning called for a round of golf, the chances are one in two that I would have to engage in a business conference.

I might wish to lounge about in a dressing gown with a few intimate friends, but probably my schedule would call for a business suit and an introduction to a group of people from out of town.

Understand me, I like meeting people. They are the most interesting things in life to me, and, if this weren't so, I would have a few friends instead of many.

But as days go on and one introduction follows another, the routine becomes a duty and a duty ever was something of a burden to all human kind.

I wouldn't mind if they would accept me merely as Gene Tunney, the man. But they do not. To them, I am Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion, and my every word and gesture is noted and remarked, as though I was an actor on the stage.

In other words, they crowded in a lot of training in a comparatively short time, which one would naturally might be expected to attain the same results that are accomplished by the student who "crams" for examinations.

The modern fighter, on the other hand, exercises regularly, carefully watches his diet, and keeps at least within ten pounds of his normal weight.

HARVARD BOOKS MICHIGAN TILT

Harvard will play Michigan at Ann Arbor on November 3, 1928.

The rumor of such a game in the air since two Summers ago, was definitely confirmed by William J. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, following an interchange of telegrams with the Michigan authorities and an all-day session with Arnold Horween, head coach of Harvard football, and other old football men, the remnant mostly of the old football committee.

The scheduling of Michigan makes it necessary to drop Pennsylvania, scheduled this year on a home-and-home basis, and due to play in the Stadium next Fall on the date that in 1929 will be given to Michigan.

Although Pennsylvania has not been dropped from the 1928 schedule, Mr. Bingham admitted that the scheduling of the Wolverines would make it difficult to find room for the Quakers.

The principle, in any case, on which both Pennsylvania and Michigan have been signed by Harvard is what has become known as Harvard's "rotating" policy, under which Yale is the only team rated as intimate as "permanent."

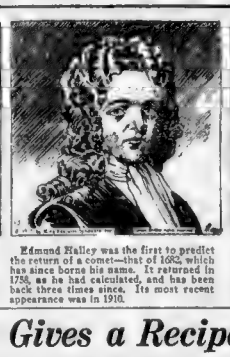
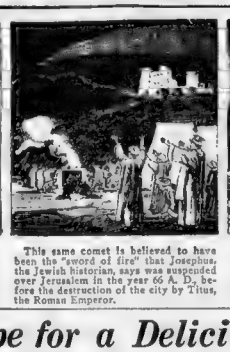
The Story of the Stars (Halley's Celebrated Comet) By Garrett P. Serviss

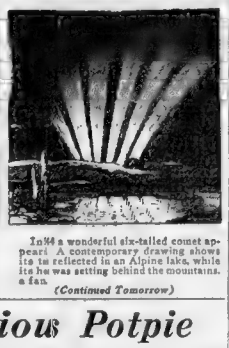
A comet in the Middle Ages. Comets have spread terror as well as wonder because of their threatening appearance, swift movements and mysterious origin. Wars, pestilences, famines and death of princes have been laid to them.



Edmund Halley was the first to predict the return of a comet—that of 1682, which has since borne his name. It returned in 1758, as he had calculated, and has been back three times since. Its most recent appearance was in 1910.



This same comet is believed to have been the "sword of fire" that Josephus, the Jewish historian, says was suspended over Jerusalem in the year 66 A. D., before the destruction of the city by Titus, the Roman Emperor.



In 44 a wonderful six-tailed comet appeared. A contemporary drawing shows its tail reflected in an Alpine lake, while its head was setting behind the mountains, a fan

Martha Lee Gives a Recipe for a Delicious Potpie

By MARTHA LEE.

WHENEVER Mr. Budget questions "Go Slow" on the food bill, I always decide to have a potpie, for I know of few dishes that combine nutrition and economy so acceptably.

Because meat and certain vegetables require a longer time to cook than the crust of a meat pie, these foods must be cooked, or at least partially cooked, before the crust is added.

Ordinarily the meat is cooked on the surface burner. It can, however, be conveniently baked in the oven.

I know the oven temperatures, in case you decide to bake them. Otherwise, they can, of course, be cooked on a top burner with a final half-hour of baking.

Potpie No. 1 — Temperature 300 degrees, time, 2 hours, then 400 degrees, one-half hour.

Two pounds beef cut into pieces for stew (the tough cuts should be used for stewing). Two tablespoons suet, butter or other fat, one tablespoon chopped onion, two teaspoons flour, two cupfuls water, one cupful celery, cut into pieces, one cupful carrots, cut into slices, one cupful potatoes, diced, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one teaspoon Kitchen bouquet.

Wash the meat. Put the fat and onion in the pan in which the pot-pie is to be baked. Heat the fat and onion on the surface burner. Then add the meat. Sprinkle the flour over the meat. Cook the mixture until the meat is browned, stirring occasionally so that the meat is browned uniformly.

Then add the water, celery and carrots. When the mixture reaches the boiling point, cover the pan, and put it in an oven whose temperature wheel is set at 300 degrees. Bake for two hours.

After the two hours of baking, add the potatoes, salt and Kitchen bouquet. Over the meat and vegetables place a crust prepared as follows: One and one-half cupfuls flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one-half cupful milk.

Sift some flour, then measure it. Add to it the baking powder and salt. Then sift the mixture into a mixing bowl. Work in the butter thoroughly with a fork. Add the milk and mix it with the other ingredients with a knife.

Drop it in soft dough in spoonfuls on top of the meat and vegetables. With a knife or spoon spread the dough slightly so that it almost covers the materials. There should be a few openings in the dough so that the steam may escape.

Return the pie uncovered to the oven with the temperature wheel set at 400 degrees and bake for one half hour. Serve at once.

When we have made these pies in the Martha Lee Kitchen the pots are certainly licked clean. We just give due credit, though, to the fact that our pepies are all even baked, and it would be difficult indeed to produce a failure with our air regulated oven. The reasonably attached to the oven and automatically controls the heat of our range. On the rim of the wheel are engraved the entire range of cooking temperatures, showing the proper setting for baking, broiling, etc. With an oven regulator you are able to achieve perfect results with everything you cook in the oven every time.

Faithfully yours

Mme. Jeritza on the Best Care of the Hair

By MARIA JERITZA.

MANY lovers of feminine beauty bewail the fashion of wearing the hair bobbed, feeling that it is wellcared-for hair is a woman's veritable crown of glory. But even a closely shingled bob can be glorious when it is exquisitely groomed and cared for—and this, regardless of whether it is golden, silver or dark in hue.

A healthy, well-coiffed mop of hair is a distinct beauty asset, whether it be long or short. So let us begin at the top today in discussing about beauty and discuss ways and means of keeping the feminine head of hair a veritable halo of glory.

When a woman's health is all it should be, a lack of hair falls short of beauty, neglect is usually the sole cause. The hair does not receive its due care. But it needs scientific, intelligent attention—and only a little of it. This daily attention is a scalp massage and a good brushing.

Fine, curly hair should not be brushed quite as much as coarse, straight hair, for brushing temporarily flattens out its wave. But every head of hair should be given at least fifty strokes with two brushes every night. After that it can be water-waved if need be for the coming day.

Military brushes such as men use are an excellent investment. At any rate choose two hair brushes which can be washed out without hurting them in ammonia and warm water. Then you can exercise your arms and shoulders at the same time, you give your hair its fifty or one hundred strokes, simultaneously, with both brushes. Brush your hair vigorously, all over your scalp.

After brushing your hair lower your head, and pat it firmly with the palms of your hands until the entire scalp has been covered. This simple form of massage, will start the blood to circulating vigorously. And the hair depends largely on vigorous circulation of pure blood for its beauty.

If your scalp is dry rub in the following tonic, twelve hours before each shampoo:

Oil of sweet almonds, 45 grams, essence of rosemary, 45 grams, oil of rose, 5 grams.

This tincture should be applied with a med ine dropper to your scalp massaging it in until your entire scalp has been covered.

Two more measures I have suggested, combined with a good shampoo with liquid or jelly soap, every week or ten days, should keep your hair clean, healthy, lustrous and beautiful.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

Grandmother's

Old Stone Cookie Jar

ONE of the things you love to remember is your childhood visits to Grandmother's old stone cookie jar.

I don't believe you ever were disappointed, for although Grandmother had to stand and roll and cut cookies she always found time to do it.

Today we have an easier, quicker way to make cookies than Grandmother had. The cookies for which recipes are printed below call for no rolling and cutting. I am sure they will gladden the heart of any child.

I make these cookies with Crisco and not a single person who has tasted them can tell them from cookies made with expensive butter. And as Crisco itself stays sweet and fresh so long it keeps these cookies fresh a long time, too.

Nut Wafer Cookies

Sliced instead of rolled and cut. Use Crisco and see how easy it is to cream with sugar. Crisco keeps so long you can double this recipe and keep the rolls in the ice box a long time, slicing and baking as you need them. Grease your pans with Crisco and you won't need to wash them between bakings.

1 cup brown sugar	2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup white sugar	2 teaspoons soda
1½ cups melted Crisco	1 teaspoon cinnamon or other spices
1 teaspoon salt	1 cup chopped nuts (blanched almonds are best)
6 cups pastry flour, sifted twice

Cream Crisco with sugar. Add eggs slowly, mixing thoroughly. Add nuts. Then dry ingredients sifted together twice. Shape into roll about 2½ to 3 inches in diameter. Put in Crisco pan in ice box overnight. When ready to bake, slice and bake in hot oven (425° F.). Makes about 75 cookies.

Grandmother's Old Fashioned Ginger Cookies

Made the new easy way—no tiresome rolling or cutting. Crisco is always ready for instant use and is easy to cream with the brown sugar. Grease your pans with Crisco and drop the cookies far enough apart to keep them round. Crisco saves washing the pans between bakings, so you won't mind using a lot of them.

1 cup brown sugar	1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup molasses	1 teaspoon salt
½ cup Crisco	1 teaspoon soda
1 egg, beaten	1 cup sour milk
	4½ cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco, sugar and salt together. Add molasses and ginger, then egg. Dissolve soda in sour milk. Add, mix thoroughly. Last add flour. Drop teaspoonfuls of the batter on a Crisco baking pan and bake in a medium oven (375° F.). Makes about 50 cookies.

Some Bride's Veils---By Request

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

THE refrain of six letters that are spread like a fan before me is the same for each one: "Would you please make a picture of some ways to wear a bridal veil? I am going to be married quite soon!" A pink letter and a Blue one. The pink one has a linen lining with rosebuds on it, that grapples with the letter when you try to get it free. The blue one has a curly monogram woven it that keeps the secret of the writer's initials completely until you find her little name One Grey one—very prim and proper. Two White ones who say this one, "I cost as much as an envelope ever does"; the other, humbly, "I am quite poor but very honest, and you would like the little flat that penned me, if ever the Fate that keeps folks strangers would make you and her known to each other!" And one Orchid one. So, by the time the last one, all perfumed and fluttering, came posting along, I decided that a lily would be a devilish to ignore the p ace of so nice a thing as a bride-to-be. And so sings a peasant:

I have no letters from groom-to-be. Their hats, the ring, and the choice between two suits to wear is all they have to trouble them. Do you suppose—can it be—I wonder—do they write to Beau Nash—or not at all?

So here are some tips—a "bride's-a-la" notions; as many as she can put in an eight-column style.

If you are a golden-haired sympathy in wistful blue and cream and roses, an appealing-eyed Princess t pe—then you can wear the Princess type head-dress—the mist of per a like a crown with the veil spraying from under it.

If you have a perfect profile, no matter which sort it is, you can wear the severe cap from a veil of solid lace he l tight down over your hai —letting the e e of your veil—with a circlet of anything you choose, r ve f ers, pearls, or a silver band.

If you have a baby face, t on a baby bonnet effect was made for you: a flaring, stiff f ll, ma ing a misty frame for curls and shining eyes. This veil woul be all of tulle, to keep the airy, faery look. And held with a wreath of orange blossoms.

If you are either of demure old-fashioned then uncovered hair, waved and shining, w the veil held behind your head and over your ears with garden s with perhaps the pearls over the top and under your chin to m e demure ress more demure, would a the look for you, Madem oi e.

If you are Cam o l ire and title, shaped into the very linen [illegible] every day, would be very smart, very [illegible] it, serious—if you look anything [illegible] on the Russ n-owned colt, that [illegible] naked forehe [illegible] made of beautiful [illegible] face [illegible] the most

"The Lovelorn," a Love Serial About Boston Girls, by Beatrice Fairfax

CHAPTER 23

MANY things had happened to Georgie Hastings. They were not adventures, they were more important things, new ideas that altered her viewpoint, a new realization that had stamped her character.

She had been genuinely fascinated by Ernest Brooks. She had lived a romantic and impossible dream that had crumbled before her eyes. The picture of herself as an artist's wife, living in the strange places of the world, moving in a whirl of exciting happenings, had given way to the truth. He was married. He had lied to her, waiting to desert her.

The shock of that knowledge had awakened all her instinctive wisdom. Suddenly, she saw that Ann was right, that love for love was reality, and was not Ernest Brooks she must turn to, or any of his kind. And her mind, acting thoughtfully and hopefully, came back to Bill Warren.

She had looked down on him before for his unsophistication, his lack of worldly knowledge. He didn't know headwaiters in smart restaurants; he couldn't act bored and insolent; he hadn't lived all over the globe and had innumerable experiences!

But now she saw him in his true light, and she was amazed that she had not realized before what he stood for.

Even before she had spoken to Ann, she felt herself ready to make up with Bill, ready to thank the unknown elements of chance that had brought her to her senses.

So it was that Ann's statement that she herself was going to marry him had come as a crushing blow. But the Georgie who would have rebelled, who would have shown that her own desires would yield to nothing else in the world, had vanished.

Often she remembered the calm way in which she had told Ann she was glad, and told her that she herself could think of Bill Warren no longer.

But the stark untruthfulness of it was to haunt her. Now that Bill was desperate, bewildered, she could not get him out of her thoughts. She remembered suddenly things he had said to her. She remembered matters like this at unexpected moments, as she bent above her typewriter, as she drank a glass of milk at noon, as she lay sleepless at night.

Not think of Bill Warren any more? Why, she had never thought of so much of anyone in her life.

But there was Ann, who loved him, too. The thing was settled, Georgie, with all her longings, stepped aside.

As the weeks passed a mood of recklessness, and tired bitterness, came over her.

She felt if Bill were lost to her, nothing else greatly mattered. There was no hoping that another Bill would appear. She didn't even want that. It was foolish to have everything, she was willing to take nothing.

After all, she was young, pretty. Girls, no prettier, were a dime a dozen, she knew, in the movies. Girls who were not half so clever, lived serenely and had innumerable experiences!

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above and fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, not having the high cards in his hand necessary to bid with the values of the second round spade bid, has the opportunity, if anyone makes a Heart bid, to bid his six spades, which compels West to redouble Diamonds in defense of partner's hearts.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. North, unable to respond to his partner's call for a continuation of the Spade suit, decides upon a lead of Hearts as the only safe way to embarrass the Declarer. Trick 3 reads North's switch of Hearts as indicating the trick in Ace of Spades, which [illegible] and South secures [illegible] make two discards. Declarer does not think advisable to attempt to come up to his lone [illegible] but plays the Ace of Hearts instead.

Trick 3. North's play of the 9 of Hearts on the previous trick, Declarer leads a low Heart from Dummy and his expectation of dropping South's King is fulfilled.

Trick 8. A Club finesse here cannot be considered, though North win the trick. Declarer might also use a trump trick through North's play of a Heart, which, ruffed by South with a card higher than the 8, would force a trump honor from Declarer's hand.

Trick 9. To protect his Hearts, North is finally compelled to throw his guard to the Queen of Clubs, enabling Declarer later to make his Jack and score a Small Slam on the hand.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

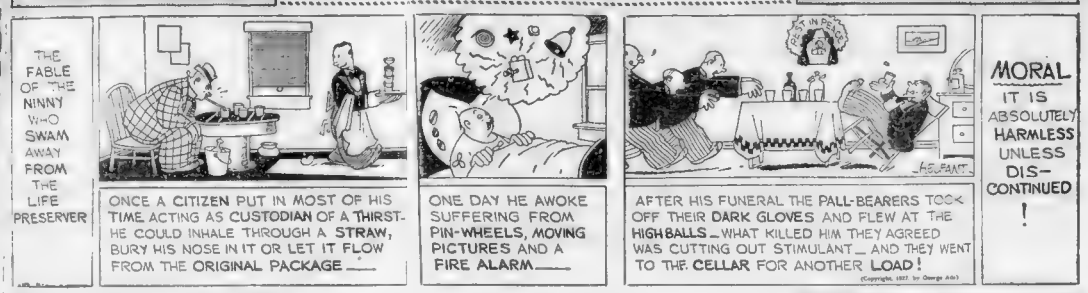
FABLES IN SLANG

Away From the Life-Preserver

By George Ade



THE FABLE OF THE NINNY WHO SWAM AWAY FROM THE LIFE PRESERVER
ONCE A CITIZEN PUT IN MOST OF HIS TIME ACTING AS CUSTODIAN OF A THIRST- HE COULD INHALE THROUGH A STRAW, BURY HIS NOSE IN IT OR LET IT FLOW FROM THE ORIGINAL PACKAGE —
ONE DAY HE AWOKE SUFFERING FROM PIN-WHEELS, MOVING PICTURES AND A FIRE ALARM —
AFTER HIS FUNERAL THE PALL-BEARERS TOOK OFF THEIR DARK GLOVES AND FLEW AT THE HIGHBALLS — WHAT KILLED HIM THEY AGREED WAS CUTTING OUT STIMULANT — AND THEY WENT TO THE CELLAR FOR ANOTHER LOAD!

GOOD TIME GUY

Trouble Ahead for Guy

By Frank Smiley

WELL, I SUPPOSE THE DEAL IS THROUGH! YOU BOUGHT THE LOT FROM GUY FOR $500 AND SOLD AT A GOOD PROFIT! I'LL GET SILK STOCKINGS FROM YOU AND A RING FROM HIM! AM I RIGHT?
YOU'RE RIGHT! EXCEPT IT WASN'T ME WHO BOUGHT IT, IT WAS A SYNDICATE. I DIDN'T MAKE A PROFIT, I LOST IT, AND IT WASN'T $500 — IT WAS $50,000!
WHAT--- $50,000 --- GUY GREEN? AREN'T YOU CLEVER, OFFERING ME SILK STOCKINGS AS MY SHARE ON A BIG DEAL? I TRY TO PUT GUY OUT OF COMMISSION AND YOU TRY TO BEAT ME OUT OF MINE?
I WISH HE'D GIVE ME THAT FIFTY THOUSAND AS EASILY AS HE GIVES ME A PAIN. THE BIG DONKEY IS BIG GAME NOW. LET'S SEE....
FRANK SMILEY Wel. Cumin
ISN'T IT A SHAME? CAROLINE NEVER HAD MUCH USE FOR GUY UNTIL HE FELL INTO WEALTH, BUT NOW SHE'LL HAVE USE FOR HIM AND WON'T SHE USE HIM?

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS---BY HELEN ROWLAND

DON'T let the thought of "what to give HIM" for Christmas worry you.

Home-made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

The most effective thing on earth that you can give a real He-man is a day of rest. The only way you can make a man happy with a Christmas gift, is not to send him one!

This does not apply to a husband or a fiance. They must take their medicine, and try to grin and bear it. But, the Boy Friend, the temporary crush, and the platonic friend why should these be afflicted with sentimental reminders, holiday funk cigar lighters that never work cravats that will never wear and pipes that will never smoke, from women whom they have never lifted their hands to harm?

• • •

Mere feminine hearts have been broken by a man's forgetfulness, or prosaic indifference on Christmas Day, than on all the other 364 days of the year.

But, at this time, a man is the stronger vessel filled with suspicion He looks upon every gift from a woman as either a bore, a bid, or a mmrx.

He is so wary and distrustful that he can see the "hook" inside a pair of motor gloves and feel the "bait" in the pocket of an imported smoking coat. The holiday cravat, even

There is something about a present from a WOMAN that either covers a man with hot embarrassment or fills him with real cold fright or resentment. The one thing on earth it never fills him with, is gratitude!

A man cannot understand how a woman feels about Christmas To her it is the Day of Days, when she just wells up and bubbles over with sentiment. There is something sacred and beautiful about the magic of the Winter Solstice, that sets her heart a-beating and her blood a-tingling, and causes to spill over with tenderness.

Mere feminine hearts have been broken by a man's forgetfulness, or prosaic indifference on Christmas Day, than on all the other 364 days of the year.

But, at this time, a man is the stronger vessel filled with suspicion He looks upon every gift from a woman as either a bore, a bid, or a mmrx.

He is so wary and distrustful that he can see the "hook" inside a pair of motor gloves and feel the "bait" in the pocket of an imported smoking coat. The holiday cravat, even when it happens to be his favorite color, feels just like a noose around his neck; the gorgeous muffler entfocates him, and even the innocent home-made cake does not rouse his appetite. It merely rouses his suspicion that you are trying to advertise your sweet domestic accomplishments.

• • •

Kris Kringle as I have said, is a man's favorite role; and when a woman wiggls his stuff, he feels exactly as though his partner had rumped his ace!

• • •

The only way to please a man with a Christmas gift is to refrain from sending him any.

• • •

The only thing to give him that will please and surprise him is the peaceful thought that as far as YOU are concerned, he is immune from holiday jank, embroidered suspenders and passionate haberdashery

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

ACCORDING to government officials, there are over two thousand new laws ready to go into effect next year. That's silly, we haven't broken all the old ones yet.

THERE are too many ordinances now. You have to break three in order to keep one.

IT won't be long until we'll all have to go to the penitentiary to stay out of jail.

IN some cities the only thing you can do on Sunday is to stay home and wait for Monday.

THERE are so many regulations to enforce that the policemen don't have time to steal fruit any more.

SOME Congressman ought to get busy and pass a law against ordinances.

ONE man got into trouble the other day for committing suicide.

HE believes in reincarnation and the authorities are going to arrest him when he comes back.

THERE'S a city out in the middle West where people can't sing on the Sabbath. Of course, there are thousands of people right here in town who can't sing no matter what day it is.

THEY would be arrested for vocalizing whether it's Sunday or not.

A WELL-KNOWN Senator is trying to have a lot of unnecessary statutes wiped off the books. He even wants to repeal the law of gravity.

TRAFFIC regulations are getting stricter all the time. You're liable to get a ticket any day for making a left-hand turn in a revolving door.

IT'S surprising that the authorities allow a man with heart failure to drop dead in a public place.

THESE silly ordinances can't go on forever. Give our law-makers enough red tape and they're bound to hang themselves.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective results. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Mr. Geraghty

To always be ready and on the so-called alert when radio announcers announce a telephone number or the address of a vulcanizing shop and the like, I offer this godsend to the listening, cockeyed world.

You have a small pencil, which they usually attach to Rotarian dance programs, tied to your wrist.

Then you take your wrist watch to a jeweler—have him remove the watch and install instead a small pad in its place.

Then when an announcer suddenly pulls a number of any kind you jot it down, from right to left, and in that simple way fool the radio announcer.

WHAT PEOPLE TALK ABOUT IN TONOPAH

(From Tonopah, Nev., Bonanza)

Today upon the streets the general topic of conversation between men and women residents is that Grant Crumley has always been a gentleman and at all times during his long residence in Tonopah has always been a true gentleman and has never made an advance to a married woman. He has always been a gentleman and a law abiding citizen.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets. 2—Solution of traffic and parking problems. 3—Better pay for honest public service. 4—An airport SECOND TO NONE. 5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness. 2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again. 3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation. 4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising. 5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries. 6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

President's Message Reveals the Value of Common Sense

Yesterday President Coolidge made his annual report to Congress on the state of the nation, and his recommendations for legislation.

As usual, his message is characterized by sound, conservative common sense.

The President naturally puts in the forefront the outstanding achievements of the Harding and Coolidge Administrations: Debt reduction and tax reduction.

When the national debt was at its maximum, it was 26,600 million dollars, and it cost us 1,055 million a year in interest. On next June 30 the national debt will be down to 17,975 million dollars, with interest charges of only 670 million dollars.

There is nothing in the financial history of any country to equal this cut of 385 million dollars in the annual interest charges we have to pay. It is a leading reason why our taxes could be successively cut until now only two and a half million people in the nation need pay income tax. The President is right in demanding Congressional support of his policy of economy.

The people will approve the President's demand for a strengthened national defense, decent housing for the army, new submarines, airplane carriers and cruisers.

With respect to our foreign relations, President Coolidge lays emphasis upon development of our relations with countries in this hemisphere. He wants Congress to authorize the Postmaster-General to pay liberally for mail contracts, making possible a "Western Hemisphere air mail." He wants our national road program linked up with Canadian and Mexican through highways, and he wants American engineers and American finance to assist in upbuilding the entire Latin-American road system.

The people will approve the President in thus directing our attention to countries on this side of the water, who are our natural friends and allies and our natural market.

Agriculture, he urges, should be aided by a revolving fund to assist co-operatives to market their products. Liberal appropriations are to be made for the Mississippi flood districts and the development of our waterways. The West will rejoice in the President's recommendation that:

"Legislation is desirable for the construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River, primarily as a method of flood control and irrigation. A secondary result would be a considerable power development and a source of domestic water supply for Southern California."

Nothing in the President's report is more important than his reiterated demand for the establishment of a separate Department of Education and Relief, headed by a member of the Cabinet, charged with the duty of directing Federal aid to the cause of education.

With the people the influence of President Coolidge's recommendations remains great. That is a reason why Congress should carefully study and heed his words. Another reason is the sound common sense in what he says. Still another reason is the excellent results obtained by following his guidance in the past.

White of Maine

William P. Frye's Grandson Tackles a Big Job for the U. S. A.

The decision announced in Washington this week by Representative Wallace H. White, Jr., of the Second Maine Congressional District could not have been made by a small man.

Representative White gives up a place on the all-powerful Committee on Rules of the House to take the CHAIRMANSHIP of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

The chairmanship carries power and prestige, to be sure, but it is only such power and prestige as may be associated with the business of a single committee, whereas the Committee on Rules deals with ALL legislation, giving this bill its place in the sun and tossing that into the discard.

The necessities of the merchant marine have been looming larger ever since the failure of the Geneva Conference. Only this week the Shipping Board reported that since 1921 Great Britain has built 49 merchant vessels to our one, Germany 12, Italy 5 and France and Japan approximately 4 each.

As chairman of Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Representative White of Maine will play an important part in shaping the Nation's future Merchant Marine policy. Concerning that policy there are two schools of thought, in the Congress and out of it. There are those who favor Government ownership and operation and there are those who insist upon private operation. In the background, at present dumb but ready to open fire at the first opportunity, are those who would scuttle ANY effort to build up a REAL merchant marine.

To see a New Englander at the head of the House committee which will have this subject to deal with, and especially a New Englander with Wallace White's background, will inspire citizens and encourage American business men. The representative from the Second Maine District is a grandson of the late Senator Frye, who up to the day of his death battled for a first-class merchant marine. In Senator Frye's day the subject was neither widely popular nor generally understood.

Graduated from Bowdoin in '99, Mr. White first went to Washington as his grandfather's secretary. He has been a member of Congress a dozen years or more. No man could be better equipped for the chairmanship he has taken.

EXAMINATIONS ARE OFTEN DELUSION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

In one of our important cities the members of the detective force took exception to the kind of examination which they received at the hands of the Civil Service officers.

They claim that the questions they were asked had nothing to do with their ability as detectives and were mere catch questions.

A perusal of these questions as given in the press bears out the statement that they were merely trivial and unimportant.

We recall the case of old John Rhinebarger, who wanted a job as a mail clerk in the railway postoffice. He was examined by the Civil Service Commission. One of the questions asked him was, "How far is it from the earth to the sun?"

He replied, "I don't think it is far enough to interfere with my duties as a railway mail clerk."

Another question that was asked him was, "How many Hessians were imported into the United States during the Revolutionary War?"

His answer was, "I don't remember exactly, but a lot more of them came over than went back."

This kind of question deserves about this kind of answer.

The examination is a traditional and rock-rooted fake. It is one of the worst ways of finding out whether a man is qualified for a position. The best teacher often is not the one with the most information and assorted knowledge, but the one who has a gift for teaching and can make pupils want to study.

The best preacher is not the one who knows the most facts, but the one who can nourish spiritual desires in his congregation.

The most competent woman is not the one who can take a prize in a beauty contest, but the one who has "it" and makes a man love her and keep his love.

A teacher who has been six months in a room with a pupil and then needs an examination at the end to find out how much a pupil knows or his other qualifications, is not much of a teacher.

There is one way to find out if a person is fit for his job. Let him try it and see how he succeeds. The man we want is the man that can do the business.

The best cook is not the one who can pass an examination on calories and such things, but is one who can cook a good meal and often cannot tell how she does it.

Examinations anyhow indicate mere ability to write.

I could write a better essay on horseshoeing than most any blacksmith, but if I tried to shoe a horse I should probably be kicked into the middle of next week.

Boston DAY by DAY

Sometimes a young person feels a little old because he or she has reached the great age of twenty-five or thirty. Cyrus E. Dallin, in his sixties, never felt that way for he plans for many more exhibitions of his sculpturing. This nationally known artist has just returned from a New York display and his head of Lindbergh, done this Summer, is still shown in a Boylston street window.

Mrs. Huntington Smith, who more than a score of years ago was instrumental in starting the Animal Rescue League, was actively engaged in the recent Animal Rescue League fair at the Copley Plaza this week. During the long fair day Mrs. Smith was to be found at the directors' table.

The University Club has started a series of bowling matches for men and women. Sewall Newman, who is a lawyer by profession, has made these matches become real events for the wives and relatives of the club members.

When Donald D. McKay, financier, Joseph C. Allen, former bank commissioner, and Melvin Smith, magazine agent, get together they don't talk politics. Congressional activities, or business. Swimming is the big hobby with these men and all of them are all year round plungers. When Winter comes they retreat to indoor pools and thus manage to keep up their skill and health.

Louis K. Liggett, Jr., knows that health in Winter is assisted by an indoor sport. His friends say he is a great devotee of badminton, which is something like tennis. The game is played in a court with two men and consists in striking a feathered ball back and forth according to defined rules. This game is one in which the ball really "flies" through the air.

Charles F. Eaton finds that the chairmanship of a club squash committee has its duties as well as glory. A pun might be made, as part of Mr. Eaton's business is selling squash pies. However, that is withdrawn because the indoor game of squash is one which brings much physical effort and exhaustion after a fast-played game.

Elsa Botterff gives informational morning talks over the woman's club radio meeting, and sometimes sings in the evening for the radio audience. Then she occasionally travels to Massachusetts towns to give lectures. Her work is illustrated with moving pictures. This means that when she arrives in a small town she must see that the hall is ready, that lights, programs and assistants have arrived, instruct the movie operator how she wants the pictures, get up before an audience, finish her talk successfully and catch a train back home—carrying the movie machine and material.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

How long an apprenticeship must a man serve before he is a master mechanic? How long before he can qualify as a carpenter, a plumber, an architect, a lawyer, a captain, a doctor, a radio operator? How long before he even knows how to plant a tree properly or treat a pig for sore nose?

Now I'll ask you another.

HOW MUCH STUDY OR INVESTIGATION DOES IT TAKE TO QUALIFY AS A FATHER OR MOTHER? HOW MANY TESTS MUST BE TAKEN—HOW MANY EXAMINATIONS MUST BE PASSED?

None at all. Anyone who wishes may undertake that most complicated and difficult of all jobs. He or she may be diseased, bad tempered, ignorant, hysterical, careless, lazy incompetent moron — that makes no difference. Without a question we intrust into such care society's most valuable and delicate possession—the Child.

I'M HERE TO TELL YOU, PARTNER, THAT IF MOST PLUMBERS KNEW AS LITTLE ABOUT THEIR JOBS AS MOST FATHERS KNOW ABOUT THEIRS, WE'D STILL BE CARRYING OUR DISH WATER FROM THE VILLAGE WELL.

Mothers of necessity accumulate more technique than dads. And there never yet was a craftsman who had such red hot incentive to make good as mother love. But with all due gratitude to mothers I still protest that a lot of them aren't well fitted for their tasks.

Is it their fault? It is NOT. It is OUR fault, for we have demanded no higher equipment from them.

The average mother loves her child fiercely and unselfishly. She often declares that she would "LAY DOWN HER LIFE" for her child. A noble statement—but it does not occur to her that it would be much more to the point if she would FILL HER HEAD for her child. Nor does it occur to society. We take it for granted that when God made her a mother he put an encyclopedia inside her skull and a master's degree in her hand.

He didn't.

God doesn't turn out graduate mothers any more than He turns out graduate ploughers.

Nor are divine honors conferred for the mere act of bearing babies.

Birth is birth—and any rabbit can hang up a pretty good record along that line. It's the subsequent performance that counts—and we have far too many parents who are content with bearing children.

We need educated, efficient parents. Some day we'll have them. Some day men and women will have to pass examinations and face tests before they are permitted to bear children. Then we'll begin to be civilized.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

A just man is not one who does no ill,
But he who, with power, has not the will. —Philemon.

Man has been lent, not given to life. —Syrus.

Folly loves the martyrdom of Fame. —Byron.

Through ignorance of what is good and what is bad, the life of men is greatly perplexed. —Cicero.

Nothing stings more deeply than the loss of money. —Livy.

You may my glories and my state depose,
But not my griefs; still am I king of those. —Shakespeare.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom and will find the fabric where he may have forgotten its cause. —Feecher.

It is part of the cure to wish to be cured. —Seneca.

Darius was clearly of the opinion That the air is also man's dominion,
And that with paddle or fin or pinion
We soon or late shall navigate
The azure as now we sail the sea. —Trowbridge.

Originality provokes originality. —Goethe.

A proverb is one man's wit and all men's wisdom. —Lord John Russell.
